SPECIAL DISPATCH TO NEW-YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5, 1864.

The Army of the Potomac began its forward march on Monday. The crossing of the Rapidan was effected without opposition on Tuesday and Wednesday at Culpepper, Jacobs', Germanna and Ely's Fords. No rebels were seen, except a few pickets, who retired as we advanced. If LEE intends to make a stand this side of Richmond, it is possible he may be met near the old battle-ground of Chancellorsville, but it is the general impression that he has fallen back from his position on the Rapidan to Richmond, in order to protect that City from the formidable force now marching upon it from the rear, and which is as likely to strike on one side of the James River as the other.

Culpepper is being strongly fortified, and will be used as a depot for stores.

It is reported here to-day that a strong column of troops under Gens. COUCH and SIGEL are marching from Winchester up the Shenandoah Valley as a cooperating column, destined eventually to cut the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, while BUTLER'S force, or a part of it, strikes the other railroad at or near Petersburgh, thus severing all railroad communications between Richmond and the South.

Gen. BUTLER took the field in person at the head of the army on the Peninsula yesterday, and his host is marshaled by such leaders as W. F. SMITH, GILLMORE, TERRY and GODFREY WEITZEL.

The movement assumes an expeditionary character. An immense fleet of transports, and a strong squadron of monitors and gunboats will convoy it up one of those broad rivers to the gates or to the back door of Richmond, and perhaps the iron-clads may once more try the strength of the rebel batteries that line the James, the Pamunkey and the Rappahannock.

The feeling prevails that there is desperate work before this army. But there is nerve and strength for it. The iron-clads lie in the still waters off Newport's News, and the fleet of gunboats are in communication with them. All the auguries are favorable.

SECOND DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5.

A dispatch from Lieut.-Gen. GRANT to one of the Generals here, says that forty-eight hours would determine whether he was to have battle on the Rapidan, or whether under the works round Richmond. GRANT'S dispatch was written yesterday.

ANOTHER DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5—2 P. M.

The Republican has just issued an extra containing the following important intelligence:

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5—2 P. M.

We feel authorized to state, since it can't now afford information to the enemy, that the Army of the Potomac had advanced toward Richmond, and the struggle for the possession of the rebel capital is begun.

Our army moved on Tuesday night, and has now crossed the Rapidan. The crossing was made at Jacob's, Culpepper, Germanna and United States. Fords, and was effected without serious opposition. LEE has been compelled to fall back from the strong position where he has held us at bay all Winter. Whether he will make a stand this side of the defences of Richmond we are not advised.

It is the opinion of some that he will fight at Chancellorsville. Every hour may now bring us news of battle, but we are inclined to the belief that it will be a foot race for Richmond. The rebel capital will undoubtedly be flanked and invested should LEE's army occupy its defences, and the country may reasonably hope that this time Richmond will fall.

LATER.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5.

A gentleman who arrived here to-day from Brandy Station, having left there last night (Wednesday) at 7 o'clock, reports that up to that time there had been no hostilities.

RUMORS FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, May 5.

It is rumored here that Gen. MEADE has crossed the Rapidan.

FROM THE PENINSULA.

WEST POINT OCCUPIED BY OUR FORCES.

We learn that West Point, Va., at the head of York River, was occupied by a portion of our forces on Monday, the 2d inst. Three of the rebel pickets stationed there came in and gave themselves up.

THE ARMIES IN THE WEST.

ACTIVE OPERATIONS BEGUN.

The movement now taking place is on a grand scale, and the three great armies are undoubtedly in motion. Gen. SHERMAN'S army, in Northern Alabama and Northern Georgia, was to move on Monday last, in three grand columns, to give the rebels battle. A postponement of a day or so may have taken place, but we shall soon have stirring news from the West also. Gen. SHERMAN'S army is very large, and under efficient organization and discipline.

GEN. MEADE'S ADDRESS TO HIS ARMY.

Gen. MEADE has issued the following address to the army:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Wednesday, May 4, 1864.

SOLDIERS: Again you are called upon to advance on the enemies of your country. The time and the occasion are deemed opportune by your Commanding General to address you a few words of confidence and caution. You have been reorganized, strengthened and fully equipped in every respect. You form a part of the several armies of your country—the whole under the direction of an able and distinguished General, who enjoys the confidence of the Government, the people and the army. Your movement being in coöperation with others, it is of the utmost importance that no effort should be left unspared to make it successful.

Soldiers, the eyes of the whole country are looking with anxious hope to the blow you are about to strike in the most sacred cause that ever called men to arms. Remember your homes, your wives and children, and bear in mind that the sooner your enemies are overcome the sooner you will be returned to enjoy the benefits and blessings of peace. Bear with patience the hardships and sacrifices you will be called upon to endure. Have confidence in your officers and in each other. Keep your ranks on the march and on the battle-field, and let each man earnestly implore God's blessing, and endeavor by his thoughts and actions to render himself worthy of the favor he seeks.

With clear consciences and strong arms, actuated by a high sense of duty, fighting to preserve the Government and the institutions handed down to us by our forefathers, if true to ourselves, victory, under God's blessing, must and will attend our efforts.

GEORGE G. MEADE, Maj.-Gen. Commanding.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI.

The Capture of the Petrel—Gen. Hurlbut's Farewell Address.

CAIRO, Thursday, May 5.

The steamer Liberty, No. 2, from Memphis for Louisville, has arrived here with 450 bales of cotton and brings Memphis dates up to yesterday evening.

There were no signs of activity at Memphis.

COTTON MARKET.

Middling continued at unabated rates, and market was firm. All offerings were being taken at advanced rates. Receipts for the past forty-eight hours, 810 bales from Helena and Little Rock. Middling to strict Middling, 68c.@69c.; good, 71c.@73c. fair, 75c.

The steamer Wilson had arrived with three barges laden with cotton, the same cargo mentioned in a former dispatch.

Dispatches have arrived from Memphis, which state that eight officers of the gunboat Petrel came up on the steamer Wilson. The attack on the Petrel was a complete surprise. One broadside was given, when her commander ordered her to be set on fire, to prevent her falling into the hands of the rebels. It is believed that the firing was not effectual.

The Petrel carried eight brass 24-pound howitzers, and had on board a number of small arms, and was provided with ammunition and supplies for six months.

It is known that the enemy have been removing their guns to Yazoo City, where they had a battery posted when the Petrel passed, and which they used against her without serious damage.

Gen. HURLBUT has issued a farewell address to the Sixteenth Army Corps. He states that the corps has been scattered and reduced until there were not enough for offensive operations; that they have lost no honor by not performing impossibilities; that they are now receiving additional strength; and that a day of reckoning with the enemy will soon come, when he will rejoice in their success; and he concludes by saying whatever may happen to individuals, the cause remains as precious as ever.

THE WAR IN NORTH CAROLINA.

The Evacuation of Little Washington.

BALTIMORE, Thursday, May 5.

The accounts from Washington, N. C., are evidently a great exaggeration.

A letter received in this city from Fortress Monroe this morning, says that several refugees have arrived from Little Washington, N. C. They report that the place was burned last Saturday, probably by a guerrilla party.

It should be remembered that Little Washington was only a very small town, which in its most prosperous days had only about 2,000 inhabitants, and was built mainly of wood, so that it is absurd to speak of a loss of several millions of dollars.

All the towns on the Pamlico Sound would hardly be worth so much.

FROM THE WEST.

The Draft in Ohio—The National Guard—Fire in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Thursday, May 5.

The draft begins in the First District this morning.

Gov. BROUGH has issued a proclamation thanking the National Guard for their noble response to his call.

The Guards are rapidly assembling at their camps ready for duty. Over six thousand reported at Camp Dennison.

The grain warehouse of Messrs. C. HAYS & BROTHERS, was damaged by fire yesterday to the amount of $11,000. Insured.

From Albany.

ALBANY, Thursday, May 5.

It was discovered to-day that a fraud had been perpetrated in connection with the New-York City Tax Levy. The words "said work being hereby suspended," having been interpolated after the item appropriating $9,600 toward laying out that portion of New-York north of One Hundred and Fifty-fifth-street. The interpolation was evidently made after the bill had passed both Houses finally, and before it was reëngrossed.

Sanitary Contribution.

BOSTON, Thursday, May 5.

The Boston Board of Brokers, to-day, appropriated one thousand dollars, to be equally divided between the Baltimore and St. Louis Sanitary Commissions.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5.

THE TAX BILL.

Under an arrangement made by the Senate Finance Committee, several interests affected by legislation in regard to taxes, had a hearing of ten minutes each to-day. Manufacturers of matches, patent medicines, photographs and whisky were represented, pleading for reduction of taxation.

THE BRAZIL STEAMSHIP LINE.

The Brazil Steamship Line scheme was passed in Senate Post-office Committee, to-day, by a large majority. The adoption of an amendment at the same time requires it to be given to the lowest bidders.

ARRIVAL OF RELEASED PRISONERS.

Four hundred Union prisoners have arrived at Annapolis from Richmond, in a condition wretched beyond description. Many have died of emaciation since their landing, and others cannot be saved. Most of them had to be carried on litters from the vessel to the hospital. The War Committee will visit Annapolis to-morrow to look into the facts in the case.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RESERVES.

The Fifty-sixth Regiment of Pennsylvania Reserves reached town about midnight last night from the front, having been mustered out of the service, in pursuance of an arrangement by which the Government allows the time they were in the State service to go to their credit on their three years' term, averaging the time the different companies of regiments were mustered into the service, and mustering each regiment out from such average date. The Fifty-sixth Regiment was one of the earliest regiments raised of the Reserves, of whom there are fifteen regiments.

On Sunday, a telegram was received at the Headquarters Army of the Potomac, to the effect that the War Department had determined to accept the State Muster of the Pennsylvania Reserves. A staff officer writes to a friend in this city: "The whole matter is now at rest."

THE DEATH OF THE FEMALE TREASURY CLERK.

Much excitement has existed here to-day, owing to the death of a young woman under circumstances which justified a post-mortem examination. It appears, by evidence elicited, that she was dismissed last January or February from the National Currency Bureau for absenting herself without leave. The principal female witness is an employe in that bureau. Her testimony was to the effect that another female employe was the accessory of a man named LEWIS, in an effort by him to hide his alleged victim's shame. Both the women are occasional actresses. The latter, it is said, recently received permission to fill a theatrical engagement. The testimony, however, was not fully sustained by the autopsy, and the verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to her death by pleuro-pneumonia.

THE INCREASED TARIFF.

The following circular relative to the late law increasing duties, has been addressed to all collecting officers:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, May 5.

In view of the numerous inquiries as to the time when the recent enactment increasing duties on Imports went into operation, the following instruction is published for the government of collecting officers:

The joint resolution of April 29, enacting the increase, took effect from its passage, and it has been judicially decided by the Supreme Court of the United States that under the acts increasing duties from and after their passage, the increase provided for takes effect on the day of passage. The Secretary is constrained, therefore, to hold that the increase required by the joint resolution took effect on the 29th of April, and consequently that all persons who have paid duties at former rates, on that or any following day, are liable to pay the additional fifty per cent. All collectors and all surveyors charged with the collection of customs will be governed accordingly. S. P. CHASE, Secretary of the Treasury.

THE TEN-FORTY LOAN.

The subscriptions to the Ten-Forty Loan, reported at the Treasury to-day, amount to $852,000.

THE PAROLED PRISONERS.

The Committee on the Conduct of the War go to Annapolis to-morrow to examine the prisoners returned from Richmond.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5.

PREVENTION OF SMUGGLING.

After prayer, by Bishop CLARKE, of Rhode Island, Mr. CHANDLER, from the Committee of Commerce, reported a bill to prevent smuggling, which provides that after the 1st day of August next, all baggage and effects of passengers, and all articles coming into the United States from any foreign country shall be inspected, and if any dutiable articles shall be found, the trunk, valise, or other envelope, shall be confiscated. The same provision applies to car or vessel, provided they may be released by the Secretary of the Navy, upon payment of fine. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to appoint additional inspectors of revenue for the following districts;

Passamaquoddy	4	Erie	1
Portland and Falmouth	8	Dunkirk	1
Eastport	4	Buffalo Creek	6
Boston and Charlestown	14	Niagara	2
Pembina	2	Genesee	2
Chicago	8	Oswego	5
Michilimackinac	2	Champlain	4
Sandusky	1	Vermont	2
Cuyahoga	3

To avoid inspection at the first port of arrival, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to make regulations for sealing vessels and for their final destination, and the master or person in charge is made guilty of felony for selling or disposing of goods until inspected, punishable by a fine of from $500 to $1,000, and imprisonment from five to eight years. Unauthorized persons removing the seal or fastening are punishable by imprisonment from one to ten years, and a fine of from $100 to $500. The informer is entitled to one-fourth of the fines collected, and one-eighth of the net proceeds of the sale of the forfeited vessel.

TAXATION ON THE EXPRESS BUSINESS.

Mr. WILSON presented the petition of a large number of express agents in regard to the taxation on their business.

MAIL STEAM SERVICE TO BRAZIL.

Mr. COLLAMER, of Vermont, (Union,) from the Committee on Post-offices and Roads, reported back the House bill to establish an ocean mail steamship service between the United States and Brazil, with amendments.

The bill authorizes the Postmaster-General to unite with the Post-office Department of Brazil, or some other office duly qualified by that Government, in establishing a direct monthly line of first-class American steamships, making trips from a port north of the Potomac to Rio de Janeiro, touching at St. Thomas and other intermediate ports that may be designated, the expense to be divided between the two Governments, not to exceed $150,000 per annum on the part of the United States. The contract is to be duly advertised, and to run ten years from the 1st of September, 1865.

Mr. TRUMBULL, of Illinois, (Union,) thought when so much was now wanted for the prosecution of the war, we should not go into an expenditure of this sort. The Government had spent hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of dollars in the Collins and other lines crossing the Atlantic, to ports where there was necessity of greater intercourse than with Brazil. He had never seen any benefit that had accrued from the aid the Government had given, and the very fact that the policy had been abandoned showed it to be a bad one.

Mr. COLLAMER referred to the facts set forth by the New-York Chamber of Commerce on this subject, showing how the commerce of Great Britain had been greatly and rapidly extended by its system of encouraging steam lines to distant ports. There were now ten lines concentrating at St. Thomas under the patronage of Great Britain, and among others they have a line running up the Baltic, and others to ports in the United States, Brazil, Mexico, etc. One of two things was true. We have either to go into a like system or learn that our idea that American commerce is to spread itself into every sea has failed. Our exports to Brazil have become almost nothing, while those of Great Britain have doubled. Yet we take more than half of the exports of Brazil, including nearly the whole crop of coffee, and this balance of trade so largely against us, we have to pay up for mostly in money. The policy had been abandoned heretofore by the influence of Southern members of Congress, who desired to cripple Northern commerce in every possible way.

The amendments of the committee, which relate to the details of the contract with the steamship owners, were adopted.

Mr. WILKINSON, of Minnesota, (Union,) desired to offer an amendment, and asked that the bill lay over. This was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO RECEIVE A PRESENT.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, (Union,) from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a joint resolution, permitting Surgeon SOLOMON C. SHARP to accept a piece of plate from the British Government, in testimony of his services to two British officers in the Annapolis hospital.

STATE GOVERNMENT FOR NEVADA.

Mr. WADE, of Ohio, (Union,) from the Territorial Committee, reported a bill to amend the act to enable the people of Nevada to form a State Government and Constitution. It provides for holding an election for the adoption of the Constitution on the first Wednesday in September, instead of the first Tuesday in October. It was passed.

PAYMENT OF LAND CLAIMS TO WISCONSIN.

Mr. HOWE then addressed the Senate at length in support of the bill to pay Wisconsin five per cent. of the grant of lands made to her in 1838.

THE NATIONAL CURRENCY BILL.

The National Currency Bill then came up as the special order, and the Senate proceeded to act on the amendments adopted heretofore in the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, (Union,) offered an amendment to the amendment of the clause affecting the Bank of Commerce, New-York City. It allows the Comptroller to close the affairs of the bank, if at any time the capital shall be less than five millions with a surplus of twenty per cent. Adopted.

Mr. WADE made a report from the Committee on the Conduct of the War, accompanied by the evidence, in relation to the capture of Fort Pillow, and moved that 25,000 copies be printed for the use of the Senate. Adopted.

Mr. SUMNER moved a substitute for the Finance Committee's amendment to the Bank Bill. It provides that every association shall pay to the United States a duty of one per cent. upon its circulation, one-half of one per cent. on its deposits, one-half per cent. on its capital stock above the amount invested in United States Bonds, each half year after January, 1864.

Mr. SUMNER said we had at last arrived at the place where the road branched into opposite directions—one way in support of the general welfare and the common defence, and the other toward State rights, State taxation and State banks. The question was between the national credit on one side, and certain local pretensions on the other. A question between the life of the Republic and certain local interests that objected to taxation when the enemy were at our very gates. Everything in men and munitions of war had been given to Gen. GRANT to secure a victory. It was our paramount duty to sustain the financial credit. To do this would be, though bloodless, as great a victory as any obtained in the field. It was highly important that every interest in the country should be taxed to sustain the country in this struggle for national life.

Mr. CHANDLER, of Michigan, (Union,) after complimenting Mr. SUMNER for his broad and statesmanlike speech, supported the amendment briefly.

Mr. FESSENDEN, of Maine, (Union,) defended the amendment of the Finance Committee.

At 5¼ o'clock the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

PENNSYLVANIA AND LEE'S INVASION.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the special order, viz., the bill to reimburse Pennsylvania for the expenses incurred in calling out troops to repel invasion.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) offered an additional section appropriating fifteen millions of dollars to defray the expenses of calling out volunteers, militia and minute-men in Pennsylvania, Maryland and other loyal States to repel rebel raids.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, (Union,) said this subject is before the Committee on Military Affairs, who had requested the War Department to give them all the facts. The committee were daily expecting a full report on the various classes of claims. It was necessary to have all the facts before the House could take intelligent action. He hoped, therefore, that the amendment of his colleague would not prevail.

Mr. SMITH, of Kentucky, (Union,) asked why the money should not be appropriated now. There was not in the War Department or elsewhere in Washington any evidence of the number of days for which the various classes of men had been called out. These facts were to be determined as the cases arise.

Mr. GARFIELD replied, the Secretary of War says there is a large mass of papers from all these States, which he is now collecting, embracing all parties. It is the intention of the Military Committee to introduce a bill providing for a commission to sit during the recess, to whom the papers will be referred, and a report made at the next session of Congress. Then Congress will know the sums due, and appropriate the monies accordingly.

Mr. ODELL, of New-York, (Dem.,) in response to Mr. SMITH, said a commission was appointed as to the claims of Missouri, and when the report was made and the claims were properly audited, Congress made an appropriation to cover the amounts. The Committee of Military Affairs proposed to pursue a similar course toward other States.

Mr. KING, of Missouri, (Dem.,) made a few remarks to show that the gentleman was mistaken.

Mr. ODELL, of New-York, referred to facts to show that $800,000, as the result of the commission, will be paid to the Missouri Home Guard.

Mr. BLOW, of Missouri, (Union,) said that the Home Guard of Missouri are now being paid. He saw no difference between Pennsylvania and the position Missouri occupied before this body last December. The claims of the Pennsylvania Militia were as just as those of the Missouri Home Guard.

Mr. GARFIELD said that farms had been destroyed, etc., but the House had confined themselves to paying only for quartermaster and commissary stores directly taken, and to cases where the claims have been audited and adjudicated like those of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SMITH, of Kentucky, advocated the pending amendment. Ninety-nine out of one hundred who were called out in his State were taken from the plow, the anvil, the shop and the machine-works. Why should there be delay in their payment, and why should not the claims be paid as they were adjusted, without causing the claimants to wait a year or more?

Mr. RANDALL, of Pennsylvania, (Dem.,) advocated the bill, and paid a high compliment to the gallantry of the militia of Pennsylvania. He said he had good authority, and was willing to give it to the House, for saying that the recent order of Gen. MEADE about the insubordination of troops in no manner related to the Pennsylvania Reserves. Two or three days ago the only difference which existed between the Government and the Reserves, as to the date of their muster, was satisfactorily settled in the manner indicated by Gen. MEADE to the War Department. He mentioned this fact in order that the common rumor or talk that the military order referred to the Pennsylvania Reserves, might be stopped, and that the truth might be known to the country.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) made a few remarks to show that the claims of Pennsylvania had been adjudicated, and the payment recommended by the War Department and indorsed by the President. The troops went into actual service.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, (Union,) opposing the bill, said it would be better to appoint a commission to ascertain the amount of the claims of all the States, instead of taking them up by piecemeal, and in future make an appropriation for their payment.

Mr. WHALEY, of West Virginia, (Union,) pressed the claims of West Virginia.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) offered an amendment, which was rejected, proposing to refer all the claims of the loyal States to three commissioners to examine and ascertain all amounts due, with a view to future adjustment.

Mr. COX's amendment was rejected by a vote of 43 against 54.

The committee rose, when the question was stated on the passage of the bill, which appropriated $700,000 to reimburse individuals and institutions who had advanced money to pay Pennsylvania soldiers called out by the proclamations of the President and the Governor of Pennsylvania to repel rebel invasion by forces under the command of Gen. LEE in the Summer of 1863, and who were in the actual service of the United States, provided no part of the money be paid to any militia of any State who refused to be mustered into the service of the United States.

Mr. SPAULDING, of Ohio, (Union,) moved to lay the bill on the table. Carried—66 yeas against 60 nays.

The House then, by two majority, refused to lay on the table a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was defeated.

Mr. ROBINSON, of Illinois, (Dem.,) moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was laid on the table.

Mr. SPAULDING moved to lay Mr. ROBINSON'S motion on the table, which was decided in the negative by three majority.

The House then reconsidered the vote by which the bill was laid on the table, by a vote of 67 against 57.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, moved to refer the bill to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The motion was disagreed to by a vote of 54 against 80.

The question now came up on the passage of the bill as given above, appropriating $700,000 for the Pennsylvania militia, which was amended by appropriating $15,000,000 to defray the expenses of other loyal States in repelling raids.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, (Union,) moved to lay the bill on the table. Decided in the negative—yeas, 50; nays, 78.

The bill was then passed by a vote of 71 against 63.

NO MORE EVENING SESSIONS.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, (Union,) moved that evening sessions be dispensed with until further order, leaving the House to adjourn at such hour as it may see fit.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, (Union,) moved that the evenings be devoted to business.

This was disagreed to, and Mr. MORRILL'S motion was adopted.

Mr. GOOCH, of Massachusetts, (Union,) from the Committee on the Conduct of the War, made a report on the Fort Pillow massacre, and moved that 40,000 copies be printed.

The House adjourned.

THE NATIONAL UNION CONVENTION.

Letter from Hon. I. N. Arnold Against Postponing the Convention.

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 2, 1864.

WM. C. BRYANT, ESQ.—Sir: I have received a printed circular to which your and other distinguished names are attached, urging the postponement of the National Convention.

Believing that such postponement would be most unwise and dangerous to the loyal cause, I ask the privilege, through the columns of the Evening Post, very briefly to give my reasons for such belief.

I concur most fully with the gentlemen who signed the paper referred to, "that it is very important that all parties friendly to the Government should be united in support of a single candidate, (for President,) and that when a selection shall be made, it shall be acquiesced in by all loyal sections of the country, and all branches of the loyal party."

I am perfectly convinced that the best means of securing a result so essential to success is an early convention; and that nothing would be more likely to prevent such union than its postponement.

The postponement would be the signal for the organization of the friends of the various aspirants for the Presidency, and for the most earnest and zealous canvass of the claims, merits and demerits of those candidates.

If the time should be changed to September, we should see the most violent controversy within the Union ranks known in the history of parties.

Is such a controversy desirable, and shall we encourage and stimulate it by postponing the convention?

I think I am fully warranted in stating that up to this time there has been no considerable difference of opinion among the people on the Presidential question. It is a most significant fact that, notwithstanding the efforts made in this City and elsewhere, in behalf of prominent and able men in military and civil life; notwithstanding a thoroughly organized, able, ardent and zealous opposition here to Mr. LINCOLN, embodying great abilities and abundant means, with the coöperation of some of the great leading newspapers of the Union, and with the aid of some of the distinguished names or trusted national leaders attached to your petition; yet all this has produced no perceptible effect upon public opinion. The minds of the people are fixed upon the great contest for national existence, and are impatient of quarrels and controversies among ourselves. The opposition to the President in our own party, talented, eloquent, zealous and active as it is, has scarcely produced a ripple on the wave of public sentiment, which is so strongly rolling on in favor of Mr. LINCOLN'S reëlection.

There is no organization among the friends of the President; they are doing nothing; but the action of the people is spontaneous, unprompted and sincere. State after State holds its conventions, appoints its delegates, and without a dissenting voice, instructs them to vote for Mr. LINCOLN. This popularity of the President, this unanimity of the people, is confined to no section, but East as well as West, Middle State and Border State, they all speak one voice—let us have Mr. Lincoln for our candidate. Do I exaggerate? Maine speaks for him on the Atlantic, and her voice is echoed by California from the Pacific; New-Hampshire and Kansas, Connecticut and Minnesota, Wisconsin and West Virginia, Iowa and Ohio, and now comes the great State of Pennsylvania, seconding Maryland, one after another, they all declare for the reëlection of the President. Is it not wiser to recognize and accept this great fact rather than to struggle against it?

The truth is, the masses of the people and the soldiers everywhere, trust and love the President. They know his hands are clean and his heart is honest and pure. They know that the devil has no bribe big enough, no temptation of wealth or power, which can seduce the integrity of ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Hence, the people, the brave, honest, self-denying people, who have furnished the men, and are ready to pay the taxes necessary to crush the rebellion, and who are determined to establish national unity, based on liberty, they are more wise, less factious and more disinterested than the politicians. Their instinctive sagacity and good sense have settled the Presidential question. It cannot be unsettled without a convulsion which will endanger the Union cause. A postponement of the convention would not prevent Mr. LINCOLN'S renomination; it might possibly endanger his election.

Acquiescence, union and harmony will follow the June Convention. Delay encourages faction, controversy and division. I say harmony will follow the June Convention. I say this because I believe Gen. FREMONT and his friends are loyal to liberty, and will not endanger its triumph by dividing the friends of freedom. I say this, because I believe the radical Germans, who support FREMONT, who have done so much in this contest to sustain the cause of free institutions, cannot be induced by their enthusiasm for a man to desert or endanger the triumph of their principles.

The hour is critical. We approach the very crisis of our fate as a nation. With union and harmony, our success is certain. The Presidential election rapidly approaches. We cannot divert attention from it by postponing the Convention. We cannot safely change our leader in the midst of the storm that is raging around us. The people have no time for the discussions which must precede and follow such a change.

I repeat, we cannot safely or wisely change our leader in the midst of the great events which will not wait for conventions. Such is the instinctive, nearly universal judgment of the people. Let, then, the convention meet and ratify the choice which the people have already so clearly indicated. Very respectfully, yours, ISAAC N. ARNOLD.

THE BOLTERS' CONVENTION.

To be Held at Cleveland, Ohio, to Nominate Candidates for President and Vice-President.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

After having labored ineffectually to defer as far as was in our power the critical moment when the attention of the people must inevitably be fixed upon the selection of a candidate for the chief magistracy of the country; after having interrogated our conscience and consulted our duty as citizens, obeying at once the sentiment of a mature conviction and a profound affection for the common country, we feel ourselves impelled, on our own responsibility, to declare to the people that the time has come for all independent men, jealous of their liberties and of the national greatness, to confer together and unite to resist the swelling invasion of an open, shameless and unrestrained patronage which threatens to engulf under its destructive wave the rights of the people, the liberty and dignity of the nation.

Deeply impressed with the conviction that, in a time of revolution, when the public attention is turned exclusively to the success of armies, and is consequently less vigilant of the public liberties, the patronage derived from the organization of an army of a million of men, and an administration of affairs which seeks to control the remotest parts of the country in favor of its supreme chief, constitute a danger seriously threatening to the stability of Republican institutions, we declare that the principle of one term, which has now acquired nearly the force of law by the consecration of time, ought to be inflexibly adhered to in the approaching election. We further declare that we do not recognise in the Baltimore Convention the essential conditions of a truly National Convention. Its proximity to the centre of all the interested influences of administration, its distance from the centre of the country, its mode of convocation, the corrupting practices to which it has been and inevitably will be subjected, do not permit the people to assemble there with any expectation of being able to deliberate at full liberty. Convinced, as we are, that, in presence of the critical circumstances in which the nation is placed, it is only in the energy and good sense of the people that the general safety can be found; satisfied that the only way to consult it is to indicate a central position to which every one may go without too much expenditure of means and time, and where the assembled people, far from all administrative influence, may consult freely and deliberate peaceably, with the presence of the greatest possible number of men whose known principles guarantee their sincere and enlightened devotion to the rights of the people and to the preservation of the true bases of republican Government, we earnestly invite our fellow citizens to unite at Cleveland, Ohio, on Tuesday, May 31 current, for consultation and concert of action in respect to the approaching Presidential election.

OF THE PEOPLE'S COMMITTEE.

EMIGRATION FROM GREAT BRITAIN.

The Alleged Impressment of British Subjects at Boston—Letters from Consul Dudley, at Liverpool, and Consul West, at Dublin.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5.

LETTER FROM CONSUL DUDLEY, AT LIVERPOOL.

U. S. CONSULATE, LIVERPOOL, April 22, 1864.

Hon. William H. Seward, Secretary of State:

SIR: I perceive a notice in the papers of a recommendation for an act to encourage emigration from Europe to the United States. This probably will be considered a sufficient excuse for my venturing to call your attention to the matter so far as this port is concerned. Emigration may be said never to have been so active as it is now. It is quite unprecedented. For the past two months all the emigrant vessels from Liverpool to the States, both with steam and sails, have taken emigrants to their utmost capacity. At the present time there are not half enough ships to carry those who want to go. I called this morning on two or three of the leading shipping houses to ascertain the true state of the business, and will briefly detail what I learned. Inman's steamers—the Liverpool, New-York, and Philadelphia line—told me that every passage on all their steamers up to the 18th of May next is now engaged; and one-half of those of the steamers to sail after this period up to the 1st of June. GUION & Co. and C. GRINNSHAW & Co., two other large houses, told me that all the passages on their respective vessels to sail between now and the 1st day of June next are already taken, and that they are turning off people every day for want of accommodations; that they are so pressed that they do not know what to do. They have not half vessels enough, and cannot procure them, to carry the passengers who want to go. What they say will apply with equal force to all the other shippers at this port. A large proportion of the emigrants have had their passage paid in the States. These have a preference. They have raised the price of their tickets for passage within the last few weeks at least a third higher than they were. All the vessels sailing are filled with passengers, and the only way emigration can now be increased, so far as England and Ireland are concerned, is to increase the means of transportation. One of the houses told me this morning that they could send out fifty thousand emigrants to the States in two months if they had the ships to carry them. I do not write this with the view of interfering with the passage of the proposed bill to facilitate emigration—it may be quite necessary for the continent—but merely to put you in possession of the facts as they exist at this place. And I am quite sure that you will rejoice with myself to learn that it is not required for England and Ireland, at least for the present, to encourage emigration.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
THOMAS H. DUDLEY.

THE IMPRESSMENT OF BRITISH SUBJECTS INTO THE MILITARY SERVICE.

The Secretary of State has received a letter from WILLIAM B. WEST, United States Consul at Dublin, dated April 20, in which he says: "So many falsehoods and calumnies have been stated in the public press, as to the treatment of the famous one hundred and two men brought by FERNY and Mr. KIDDER, of Boston, who were said to be forced into enlistment by being starved, drugged, &c., and the Government having directed their Minister, Lord LYONS, to get at an explanation thereof from you, I have thought it advisable to send you copies of two letters from several written in a similar strain to poor parents here, by the recipient of KIDDER and FERNY'S free emigration, who rejoice in their good fortune, and are in entire ignorance of the bad treatment said to be received by them, and for which they have had so much sympathy from their Irish friends, who would have let them starve or go to the poorhouse had they remained much longer in Ireland."

One of the letters above-referred to is dated Galoup Island, Boston, March 23, 1864, in which the writer, addressing his parents, says:

"When we landed at Portland there was a great hubbub among the boys. There were gentlemen who met us on the pier and gave us drinks, cigars, and food, and wanted us to enlist. There were about nine of them enlisted, and the remainder came along with FERNY to Boston. I remained at Portland till next day, and I could get work there at $2.25 per day, if I liked to stop; but I was not in working trim, for I did not eat three good meals of grub during the time I was coming across; so I came to Boston the next day and enlisted for the Third Cavalry, which is stationed now in New-Orleans, where I will have to learn my drill. I got $400 in hand, and I sent you home $325. The bounty I enlisted for was $627. I only got $400 in hand. The remainder I get in installments every two months, along with my pay.

Everything is very dear here at present. Butter is 50 cents a pound; sugar 17 cents a pound, and everything in proportion; but still wages are good. No one need starve here. But don't be laboring under the idea that men are very scarce here. It is no such thing; there is plenty of them. Dear parents, you would be surprised to see the number of men enlisting here. The generality of them are dressed like gentlemen, with watches in their pockets. It is a good thing that you cannot be forced to do anything here. As to forcing us to enlist, no one could do it, except you were a citizen. Then you would be subject to the draft, and you must be three years in the country before that can be done. We would be very comfortable here, only there is no chance of drink on the island. I have seen fellows give $8 for a quart of whisky. All of the fellows are buying watches out of their bounty, and fancy shirts, but I bought nothing. I don't understand it. I might get shot, and some guerrilla might have the pleasure of turning me over; and if I dont, why I shall have the pleasure of turning over some of them. Contrary to what I was always led to believe, the men work twice as easy here as at home," &c.

Another recruit writing to his "dear parents," from Galoup Island, Boston Harbor, March 17, 1864, says: "It took us fourteen days to come to Portsmouth, and when we landed there was hundreds of land, and when we landed

ARRIVAL OF THE OCEAN QUEEN.

The Troubles Between Spain and Peru.

The Spanish Squadron Occupies the Chincha Islands.

The Government of Nicaragua has concluded a contract with Capt. PIM to build an Interoceanic Railroad.

Advices from Lima state that the question between Peru and Spain had reached an alarming stage. The Spanish Minister, having been refused a recognition, sent an ultimatum to the Peruvian Government, which was returned unopened, and he left the country in a steamer. Report said a Peruvian war steamer went after him, but returned without finding him. The people of Peru speak of the Spanish squadron taking possession of the Chincha Islands and of the Peruvian navy.

The project of a railroad across the Andes in Chili has lost none of its interest there. The report of the Surveying Engineer says there are no serious obstacles to be encountered.

SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA.

Alarm in Peru Regarding the Attitude of Spain—Monitors for Peruvian Ports—The Boundary Question Between Bolivia and Chile—Mediation of Our Government Declined.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Tuesday, April 26, 1864.

The British Royal Mail steamship Chile arrived at Panama from Valparaiso and intermediate ports on the 20th. Her dates from Valparaiso and Santiago de Chile are to the 1st of April, from La Paz, Bolivia, to March 30, and from Lima and Callao to April 14. The Chile brings $263,299 in specie, principally for England, 10,162 packages for Liverpool, 461 packages for Southampton, 31 for New-York, and 392 for Panama. The news is interesting, except from Ecuador, where nothing of note was transpiring. Señor CARVAJAL, the new Vice-President, took charge of the Presidency at Quito on the 28th March, during the absence of the President, who was absent at Guayaquil.

PERU.

In Callao and Lima the greatest alarm existed at the attitude of Spain in regard to the unfortunate Talambo affair. A year or two since, some rich landholders in Talambo imported some Spanish laborers and agriculturists from the mother country, contracting with them for a length of time at specified rates and hours of labor. From the first, these laborers did not evince much industry or docility. On several occasions—such as ordinary feast days—they refused to labor; things went on from bad to worse, until one day they refused point blank to work, and gathered together for resistance. A quarrel and fight ensued between the Spaniards on one side and their masters and native Peruvians on the other, which resulted in the death of one or two and the wounding of others of the Spaniards, and it is claimed in the killing of one or more of the Peruvians. But the Peruvians were considered the aggressors, and a judicial examination was had, to effect their punishment. The principals, however, possessed a good deal of influence in the district, and no doubt were enabled easily to retard the course of justice, and were likely to escape altogether its penalties. But, on representations being made at Lima, the Government ordered prompt action, but not sufficiently prompt to appease the Spanish Government, which, it is generally believed in Peru, has long sought quarrel with that Republic, in order to appropriate to itself the rich guano islands. In this state of the case, and when the matter of the massacre had been transferred to the Supreme Court at Lima, Señor SALAZAR Y MAZZARREDO, Envoy Extraordinary to Bolivia, reached Lima, and presented himself to the Peruvian Government, with peremptory demands for immediate reparation. But when his credentials were examined, it was found he was accredited to Peru only as a "Comissionario," and not as a Minister Chargé or even Special Envoy. So it was at once decided that he could not be received, as it is usual to send Commissioners only to provinces, or portions of the same country from which they emanate—or, in other words, by receiving such an agent, Peru would admit the claim of Spain that she is only a colony of that kingdom.

In this state of the case, nothing further could be done, and Señor MAZZARREDO left Lima, in what direction the Lima papers profess to be ignorant. But I learn from a private source that he went to Talambo, to inquire personally into the matters that transpired there before he reports the result of his mission to his Queen. I also learn from the best authority, that MAZZARREDO ordered the Spanish fleet of Admiral PINZON to repair to Callao with all haste. One small vessel of the fleet is now at Callao, and the others, I believe, are at Valparaiso.

Some confidential agents of the Peruvian Government go to New-York on this steamer, and it is currently reported that one of them takes propositions to construct some monitors for the defence of Peruvian ports.

The papers still talk of the "Continental American Congress" as a fixed fact, and think it will be held in Lima in May. The Ministers of Colombia, Chili, Bolivia and other States are now on their way to the place of meeting, and the Minister from Venezuela is already there. Central America will be represented in the Congress.

A correspondence between Mr. SEWARD and the Peruvian Minister at Washington is published in the Lima papers, in which the former asks the privilege of sending sick American seamen from the Consulates at Callao, Paita and Tumbes to the hospital of San Andres, at Lima, at the rate of $1 25 per day. The papers are much flattered at the good opinion of Secretary SEWARD of the Lima hospitals, as indicated by his request, and it will be granted.

A "Credit Mobilier," on the Paris plan, with a capital of $2,000,000, has been established at Lima.

The United States sloop-of-war St. Marys was at Callao, to sail immediately for Panama.

Exchange on London, 60 days, 37 pence per dollar.

BOLIVIA.

The President was daily expected at Oruro, the temporary seat of Government. Hopes are still expressed in Bolivia of a peaceful settlement of the boundary question with Chili.

Messrs. HAVILAND, KRAY & Co., an American house, propose to construct carriage roads in the north of Bolivia, to connect the Cities of La Paz, Oruro and Cochabamba.

CHILI.

The elections for Congress have been concluded. No disturbances took place. The Government has a majority of the delegates.

The great scheme of a railroad across the Andes, of which I gave you some particulars in my last, is still largely occupying public attention in Chili. I inclose you in English the very interesting report of the Surveying Engineer, which you will find worthy of a place in the TIMES, if you have not already published it from the Spanish copy I sent you.

The United States Minister to Santiago, Mr. NELSON, by order of the Government at Washington, has offered the mediation of the United States to settle the boundary and guano question between Chili and Bolivia. I send you the correspondence. The Government of Chili declines the mediation at present on the ground that the course pursued by Bolivia makes such a resort impossible. The Mercurio advocates the selection of the United States as mediator or arbiter.

Señor JOSE ANTONIO TORRES, a poet and humorist, and formerly editor of the Mercurio, is dead; also, Don RAMON S. SUBERCASEAUX, a wealthy merchant of Valparaiso.

Business, in consequence of the elections, has been dull the past fortnight. Copper had declined $10 75, put on board. Freights to Europe, £3 10 to £3 15. Exchange on London, 60 and 90 days, 44d. to 44½d. per dollar.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Dates from Guatemala are to the 12th, Salvador 13th, Nicaragua 14th, and Costa Rica to the 17th April. The steamer Guatemala has the following freight list:

For Southampton—31 cerroons cochineal; 2 do. indigo; 18 boxes plants; 1 parcel samples.

For Liverpool—38 cerroons cochineal; 351 bales of cotton; 1,051 bags coffee; 200 do. sugar; 30 cans balsam; 3 bales deer skins; 42 hides; 1 parcel samples.

For San Francisco—1 case samples; 435 bags coffee.

For South Pacific—6 bales cocoa; 285 bags coffee.

For Panama—365 bags coffee; 241 packages sugar; 29 bags rice; 10 cerroons silver ore; 2 cases cigars: 597 hides.

SPECIE—For England—13 packages, $22,121 50. New-York—1 package, $3,275 25. Panama—9 packages, $5,409 75. Total, $30,806 50.

The news is unimportant. Guatemala and Salvador now seem to be completely under the sway of the Roman priesthood, and only such laws are enacted as are pleasing to them. The edict published by the Corregidor of the Department of the Capital of Guatemala for the observance of Holy Week, are a fair specimen: "Every person who shall in any way forget the respect due to religious acts, in churches or processions, shall be arrested and receive such punishment as his disrespect will make him liable to." The country is quiet.

In Salvador, the new Government is asking a loan in England of one millions of dollars at 15 per cent. premium and 8 per cent. interest, to be paid in a sinking fund of 4 per cent. with one-half the custom dues of the ports as security. Congress has passed two despotic laws. In the first, Ex-President BARRIOS, now in New-York, is charged with high treason, and his property is sequestered while the necessary evidence may be collected to convict him. The second decrees that "when the public tranquillity is threatened, the Government can issue orders of detention or imprisonment against those who may be considered to be offenders, and examine them, setting them free or delivering them up to their respective judges within ten days; but if, according to the President's judgment, it should be necessary to confine or expel those charged with conspiracy or treason, he will have the power in either case, as Executive of the nation. With such laws as these, the field will soon be again open for Gen. BARRIOS.

There is nothing from Nicaragua. I have already written you that Capt. PIM'S "contract" to build a road through the Mosquito Territory and Nicaragua from the Atlantic to the Pacific, has been approved by the Government of Nicaragua. In Costa Rica a correspondence is published with the Captain, in which he proposes to complete the survey in one year for a communication by carriage-way and water between San Jose, the Capital of Costa Rica, and his railroad, through the land of the Gatusos down to the River Frio, on the southern shore of Lake Nicaragua. It will be seen that the Captain doesn't "stop at trifles."

PANAMA.

Reports from the Capital—Distinguished Arrivals.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Tuesday, April 26, 1864.

We have no news from Bogota, the capital of the Republic, although a few private letters reached the Isthmus from there by the British steamship Mexican, from Santa Martha last week. We have a report that the Congress of Bogota have modified, or have under consideration a law modifying, the late restrictions upon the church, which have caused so much trouble here and elsewhere in the country the past year.

A long correspondence and a mass of evidence is published in the semi-official paper here, to prove that the Government had the legal right to expropriate the printing press of the Commercial Chronicle. I believe it is admitted by the British, French and United States Consuls that the question of seizure has now been reduced to one of a strictly legal character, and must be settled, if settled at all, by the courts.

The different steamers for the past ten days have brought a large number of prominent persons to Aspinwall and Panama for the United States and Europe. Among them are Dr. MONTEALEGRE, late President of Costa Rica, and family; T. THOMPSON, Esq., H. B. Majesty's Chargé to Chili; T. B. MATHEW, Esq., H. B. Majesty's Minister to Central America; Capt. HARDINGE, Royal Navy; WILLIAM LLOYD, Esq., Chief Engineer of the Valparaiso and Santiago Railroad; CHARLES EATON, Esq., U. S. Secretary of Legation to Peru; a messenger from the Spanish Admiral PINZON to Madrid, with papers in regard to the Peruvian difficulty, and others. A. B. DICKINSON, U. S. Minister to Nicaragua, will be here next week to meet his family from New-York. An agent of the Ecuadorian Government has also reached Panama, where he expected to meet an agent from President MOSQUERA, to ratify the treaty of Pinsaqui, which closed the war between this Republic and Ecuador, but the Colombian agent has not yet arrived.

The U. S. flagship Lancaster and the sloop-of-war Cyane are at Panama. The Cyane will soon leave, to be replaced by the St. Marys, soon expected from Callao. Commander SHIRLEY, of the Cyane goes home on this steamer. He has been relieved by Commander LAW. Lieut. SNELL, of the Lancaster, goes home invalided.

It is reported here this morning that the President of the State of Panama has had Señor PEDRO GOITA, Vice-President of the State, placed under arrest.

GREATHOUSE, one of the Chapman pirates, who was released on taking the oath of allegiance to the Government at San Francisco, was sent across the Isthmus, this morning, in irons, under a United States military guard, for New-York.

Naval Movements.

PROGRESS OF THE GREENPOINT VESSELS-OF-WAR.

Our naval reporter yesterday visited the vessels-of-war in course of construction at Greenpoint. They are silently and surely approaching completion. Within three or four months nearly all of them will be cleared of the yards and afloat. Stopping at the yard of the New-York Iron Ship-yard of Mr. J. S. UNDERHILL, we found the Modoc approaching the likeness of her beautiful model. She is one of the light-draft monitors, 225 feet long, 45 feet wide and 9 feet deep. One peculiar feature in her form is that her deck is rounded, being 21 inches higher at the crown than at the edge of the deck; and thus, when the vessel is submerged, nothing but the round hump will be visible of the entire hull. This is to remedy an objection in vessels of the same class where the edge of the vessel is visible, and the ball forces its way and rips up the whole length of the deck plates. The water-tight compartments run the whole length of the vessel on each side, bulkheaded off 20 feet, so as to make separate compartments, and are filled to lower the vessel, or emptied to raise her, by engines. This vessel like all light-draft monitors, is intended for steam and inlet navigation. She will be ready for active service in September, at which time she will also be launched, being fitted out complete on the stocks. Another improvement in this vessel is the steering apparatus being double, so that when the one above the turret in the pilot-house becomes disabled, the one forward of the turret and under the deck can be used with equal facility. Mr. UNDERHILL is using his best energies in making this vessel one of the best of her class. She is constructed of the best material, four feet of white pine on each side forms the backing for the armor, which is three inches thick. The bow forms a ram; it goes three feet below the top of the deck and is as sharp as a knife. The deck will be covered with two thicknesses of half-inch iron plates, under which is the oak timber, fifteen inches thick, nearly all of which is laid. There will be one revolving turret in the centre of the vessel, with two guns.

At the Continental Works lay the Puritan, Cohoes and Muscoota, all progressing rapidly and will be completed in three or four months. The Puritan, the rival of the Dictator, looks sternly down from her stocks. She is 539 feet long, 50 feet beam and 20 feet deep, 21 feet longer than the Dictator, 3,500 tons burden. She will be launched about the first of July, when we will give a full description.

The Cohoes, light-draft monitor, is almost a fac-simile of the Modoc in general dimensions. She has an inner hull, outside of which is a tank, which will enable her to go down about 12 inches from the surface of the water. Her draft is 6 feet. She has two propeller engines. The armor is four feet thick, 3 inches iron and the rest wood, and when the water-tanks are filled it is 3 feet more. The turret is 20 feet in diameter, and eight 1-inch plates in thickness. The cylinders of the engines are 22 inches by 30 inches stroke. She will have the ordinary revolving turret. There have been a great many changes made in her, which has kept her back; but the work is being driven forward now, and the boiler and machinery are being put in preparatory to launching.

The Muscoota is an iron double-ender, 255 feet long, 34 feet beam, and 12½ feet deep, with side wheels, and is 15 feet longer than her 27 sisters, and she is one of the five iron ones contracted for. She will be ready to launch about the 1st of June. Her sides are covered with a half inch of iron. The engines will be put in at the Morgan Works after she is launched. She carries eight broadside guns, two swivel rifle guns, and four howitzers on the hurricane-deck. She will have two masts with sails, and looks something like an ordinary steamer.

Next, stopping at the yard of Capt. PERINE, we found the Nahuc, light-draft monitor, 225 feet long, 45 feet wide and 11½ feet deep, exactly like her graceful model, and only waiting for the machinery to launch. About the 1st of June, it is thought, her machinery will be in. Her interior is very nearly completed, the fittings of the cabins, &c., approaching completion, the turret machinery is in, and blower engines completed. She draws 6½ feet water, and the ram extends 13½ feet, and is very sharp. It is expected she will be very fast.

Artificial Flowers and Public Economy.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

NEW-YORK, Thursday, May 5, 1864.

I have been much interested in the articles which the TIMES has contained in relation to public economy and the wisdom of diminishing our foreign indebtedness. Allow me to give you a few items of information in regard to the effect produced on one branch of manufacture by the reckless extravance of the day. I am a maker of artificial flowers. Few have any idea of the extent of the business. In New-York alone some 2,500 girls are employed, earning an average of three dollars a week. They are employed by at least 125 different persons. Up to the present season there has been great encouragement for the business, which has steadily progressed, each year diminishing the amount of importation of Paris goods. This season, however, our customers tell us that they have no one poor enough to buy American goods; in fact, an article made in New-York equality as well as in Paris is unsalable because domestic. Notwithstanding the doubling of the cost of French flowers, the sale has been unprecedented, goods selling readily at $25 to $45 per dozen, when in old times $18 was hard to obtain. In consequence of this state of things, a great many girls are out of employment. The manufacturers are being compelled to close their shops, and a total destruction of their business seems inevitable if things continue in this way. Our girls are a needy class—all young and of poor families, and to no one can your urgent appeals for economy be of more service than to them.

Cotemporaneous Acts Admissible to Prove Fraud.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Justices Moncrief, Monell and McCunn.

William Lalor vs. Thomas Fisher; George F. Keller vs. The Same.—The defendant was charged with purchasing a lot of lard from the plaintiffs with the intent of cheating and defrauding them, alleging that he obtained bills of lading for the lard and shipped it to Cuba. It appears that the return day named in the orders of arrest granted in these actions was extended without proof; that the Sheriff was unable to find the defendant. The defendant was arrested in June last, and a motion was made for his discharge upon the ground that not proof of fraud was made by the plaintiff's affidavits, and that the orders of arrest had no legal effect at the time of the defendant's arrest, because he was arrested after the original return day mentioned in the orders; that a new or alias order should have been issued, and no extension of time granted without proof that the defendant could not be found. The motion was argued before Judge MCCUNN, and denied with costs. From his decision an appeal was taken to the General Term, who now affirm Judge MCCUNN'S order. The following opinion was delivered by the court.

MONELL, J.—We have inspected the orders of arrest in these actions, but are unable to determine from such inspection alone whether the return day was changed by the Justice, who made the orders or by the plaintiff's attorneys. The initials of the Justice appear opposite the alteration, and, in the absence of proof to the contrary we must presume they were put there by the Justice at the time the alteration was made. Mr. Coleman, one of plaintiff's attorneys, substantially swears so.

But the motion to vacate the orders of arrest do not appear to have been made upon any such ground. The irregularity, if it was such, was not pointed out in the morning papers, so that the respondent could have met it by proof. The statement in the defendant's affidavit that, at the time of his arrest, "the orders had no legal effect, for the reason that the return day had expired," was not a sufficient notice of the particular ground relied on. It is too late to take the objection on the appeal. The affidavits of the plaintiff and his clerk, standing alone, were not sufficient to authorize the orders of arrest; but taken in connection with, and supported by the proof of cotemporaneous acts of the defendant, a case of fraudulent intent is clearly made out. Cotemporaneous acts are always competent as evidence to sustain a charge of fraud. The defendant, although he denies generally any fraudulent intent, leaves undenied and unexplained much of the indicia of fraud sworn to by Brady, Unrich, Keller and McMann. The defendant has failed to satisfy me that he honestly contracted the debts, to recover which these actions were brought. And I am, therefore, of opinion that the orders appealed from should be affirmed with costs.

Moncrief and McCunn, JJ., concurred;

Alexander H. Reavey, for appellant; S. B. Cushing, for respondent.

Assignments—Facts and Inferences of Fraud.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Justices Leonard, Clerke and Sutherland.

Michael Walsh and others vs. John Kelly, Sheriff.—This was an action for the recovery of property belonging, as claimed, to the plaintiff, which had been levied upon by the defendant as Sheriff of the City and County of New-York.

It appeared that, prior to 1857, the plaintiff was a merchant in London, doing business under the firm name of M. Walsh & Co., and they consigned goods to G. & F. Mooney of this City, to be sold on commission; and it also claimed that some goods were also consigned to Mooney, Manly & Co., successors of G. & F. Mooney. The consignments amounted to over $100,000.

Subsequently, the firm of G. & F. Mooney failed, and made assignment. It appeared that at the time of failing they owed the plaintiff's firm over $12,000. G. Mooney was subsequently a member of the firm of Mooney, Manley & Co., as he was also of the firm of the plaintiff. The indebtedness of G. & F. Mooney was secured by notes made by that firm payable to Mooney Manley & Co., and indorsed by the latter firm. The notes were not paid, and subsequently Mooney, Manley & Co. assigned goods over to the plaintiff in part payment of the indebtedness referred to. The plaintiff took these goods with other stock which he purchased, and commenced business in his own name, but the creditors of Mooney, Manley & Co. attached the goods, and sold the plaintiff out through the Sheriff, (defendant,) and the plaintiff's business was brought to a close. This action was then brought and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff, assessing the value of the goods at $2,450, and his damages at $401.

The defence was that the goods were fraudulently transferred by Mooney, Manley & Co., then in a failing condition, with the knowledge of that fact by the plaintiff, for the purpose of defrauding other creditors.

Defendant's counsel asked the court to charge certain points to the jury, but the court declined, and exceptions were taken and the case appealed thereon.

Upon argument, the judgment was affirmed.

D. McMahon for Walsh; A. J. Vanderpoel for Sheriff.

Heavy Damages for Personal Injuries.

SUPREME COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice Sutherland.

Anabella Patterson, by her Guardian, vs. James Harrington.—This was an action for $6,000 damages for injuries received by reason of being run over by a butcher's wagon belonging to defendant, and driven by one of his servants, counsel for the plaintiff contending that the accident occurred through the negligence of defendant's servant, the driver of the cart. Defendant's counsel maintained that it was the result of negligence on the part of the lady. His Honor charged the jury that the plaintiff was entitled to recover if it appeared from the evidence that she had used due care, and that the defendant's driver had been careless. The jury, after being out fifteen minutes, returned with a verdict for the plaintiff for $3,000 damages.

John T. Cochran for plaintiff; H. R. Bryan, for the defendant.

Suit Against John Morrissey, to Recover Money Lost at Gambling.

COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Pablo de Arieta vs. John Morrissey.—This action is brought to recover $23,000, lost by the plaintiff in the faro saloons of the defendant in this City and in Saratoga—$9,000 in Saratoga, in September, 1863, and $14,000 in this City soon after. Motion was made to have the complaint made more definite and certain by setting out the items. That motion was denied, and appeal taken by defendant; and motion was now made for an extension of time to answer until after the decision on the appeal. Motion granted.

Jurisdiction of the Persons and Property of Foreign Embassadors—Attachment.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Foster.

Turner vs. Segur.—The defendant made a motion to have an attachment vacated. The attachment issued upon a judgment for $2,000, and defendant was a non-resident. In suppport of the motion defendant showed by the affidavits of Mr. Cushing and others that he was the Minister Plenipotentiary of the State of San Salvador accredited to the United States, and that he had received a passport from Secretary Seward, securing to him all the privileges and immunities of foreign ministers. In reply the plaintiff showed that defendant had been imprisoned in Fort Lafayette for alleged treasonable practices, and his commission had been revoked. Defendant's counsel admitted that Mr. Segur had been imprisoned, but contended that the passport given by Mr. Seward condoned for all past offences, and restored him to all his former rights and privileges, among which is exemption from arrest. Decision reserved.

John McKeon for the motion; Ex-Recorder Smith opposed.

The Jefferds Case—Proceedings Preparatory to Sentence.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Justices Leonard, Clerke and Barnard.

The People vs. Charles M. Jefferds.—Ex-District Attorney Nelson J. Waterbury made a motion yesterday morning to have the remittitur from the Court of Appeals and the decision of that court in the Jefferds case made the decision of the Supreme Court, so that the prisoner might be sentenced and executed. Robert D. Holmes, counsel for the prisoner, opposed this and the court took the papers.

THURSDAY, May 5—P. M.

Speculation on the Stock Exchange is unusually stagnant to-day, and the turn of prices on the Railway and Miscellaneous Shares again downward. The impending military movements in Virginia are looked to with intense interest, and new engagements of a speculative nature are entered upon generally with reluctance, and in all cases with caution on the part of the Brokers. The Railway market is in a much better condition for the news of actual battles in the Spring campaign than a fortnight ago. The subsequent fall, however, heavy as it has been on most descriptions, has not yet induced confidence among new buyers. The market to-day is 1@1½ ⅌ cent. lower than yesterday on a small volume of business.

The Government Stocks hold firm. There is a further advance on the 5-20s at the Stock Board, on sales of $150,000, and the sales of the New Loan by the First National Bank amount to $321,300. This Bank paid into the Treasury Office to-day $1,500,000 on the proceeds of these sales, previously made.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made as compared with the same hour on Wednesday afternoon. The market is generally dull. The price of Gold through the day was 2 ⅌ cent. weaker than yesterday, and there was a further decline of 1 ⅌ cent. after regular 'Change hours. This in the face of a rather improved Customs demand, which to-day amounted to about $300,000. The Importers are entering a large portion of their new receipts at the enhanced rates of duty, though without the prospect of being able to add the increased tax upon their sales:

NEW SKIRT FOR 1864.

A NEW AND GREAT INVENTION IN HOOP SKIRTS.

THE DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE) STEEL SPRING.

J. I. & J. O. WEST, NO. 97 CHAMBERS-ST., NEW-YORK.

Are the owners of the patent and exclusive manufacturers of this,

J. W. BRADLEY'S

PATENTED DUPLEX ELLIPTIC STEEL SPRING SKIRTS.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most elastic, flexible and durable spring ever used, enabling the wearer, in consequence of its great elasticity and flexibleness, to place and fold the skirt when in use as easily and with the same convenience as a silk or muslin dress. It entirely obviates and silences the only objections to hoop skirts, viz.: the annoyance to the wearer as well as the public, especially in crowded assemblies, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, or in any crowded place from the difficulty of contracting them to occupying a small space. This entirely removes the difficulty, while giving the skirt the usual full and symmetrical form, and is the lightest and most stylish and graceful appearance for the street, opera, promenade or house dress. A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterward willingly dispense with the use of them. They are the best quality in every part, and by far the lightest, most durable, comfortable and economical skirt made. Merchants will be supplied as above, and ladies in most first-class retail stores in this City and throughout the different States.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The news from the several armies of the Union this morning will be read with intense interest. Though we have yet no announcement of actual collision, there is the utmost assurance for stating and believing that the great armies under Gens. SHERMAN, MEADE and BUTLER are all well in motion, and but a few days can elapse ere we have stirring news. The Army of the Potomac has again successfully crossed the Rapidan, but the enemy was not found in force. The impression prevailed that LEE was falling back on Richmond. Gen. GRANT telegraphed on Wednesday that forty-eight hours would decide where he would have his battle. That time is up to-day. Gen. BUTLER'S army embarked on transports on Tuesday and Wednesday, and were to be accompanied by a fleet of monitors and gunboats. That column expects warm work. The news from Gen. SHERMAN is, that he was to move on Monday, or very soon thereafter, in three grand columns, into Northern Alabama and Georgia.

Dispatches from Memphis state that eight officers of the gunboat Petrel, recently captured on the Yazoo, have arrived there. The attack on the Petrel was a complete surprise. One broadside was given, when her Commander ordered her to be set on fire, to prevent her falling into the hands of the rebels. It is believed that the firing was not effectual. The Petrel carried eight brass 24-pound howitzers, and had on board a number of small arms, and was provided with ammunition and supplies for six months.

The report of the Special Sub-Committee on the Conduct of the War, who went West to investigate the Fort Pillow massacre, was laid before Congress yesterday. It fully confirms all the tales of horror we have previously received from that quarter, and a close inspection of some of the incidents only adds to their revolting character.

It is reported from Washington that the House Committee on Elections has decided that FRANCIS P. BLAIR, Jr., was not duly elected a member of Congress from Missouri, and that the contestant, SAMUEL KNOX, is entitled to the seat of Representative from the First District.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, a bill was introduced to provide additional safeguards against smuggling, by the appointment of additional Inspectors of Revenue. The bill to establish mail steam service to Brazil was reported and discussed at length, but no action taken. A bill was reported to enable the people of Nevada to form a State Government, by holding an election for the adoption of a Constitution. The National Currency Bill was taken up, and the Senate considered it at length, but no conclusion reached when the Senate adjourned.

The House, yesterday, devoted its session chiefly to considering the bill to reimburse the State of Pennsylvania for expenses incurred in calling out the militia during the rebel invasion of 1863. Mr. COX, of Ohio, offered an amendment to appropriate fifteen millions to pay the expenses of all the States that had called out troops to repel raids of the enemy; this was at first rejected; the bill was then laid on the table; a motion to reconsider was then made, and a motion to lay that motion on the table, in order to finally kill the bill, was lost; the bill was then reconsidered, and the fifteen million amendment being again proposed was adopted, and the bill passed. The House resolved to discontinue night sessions and then adjourned.

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Ocean Queen, from Aspinwall, April 26, arrived at this port yesterday. The Government of Nicaragua had concluded a contract with Capt. PRIM to build an Interoceanic Railroad. Advices from Lima state that the question between Peru and Spain had reached an alarming stage. The Spanish Minister, having been refused a recognition, sent an ultimatum to the Peruvian Government, which was returned unopened, and he left the country in a steamer. Report said a Peruvian war-steamer went after him, but returned without finding him. The people of Peru speak of the probability of the Spanish squadron taking possession of the Chincha Islands and of the Peruvian navy. The project of a railroad across the Andes in Chili has lost none of its interest there. The report of the Surveying Engineer says there are no serious obstacles to be encountered.

A large force of workmen are busy at work on the Battery, putting up two new hospitals, 132 feet long by 21 feet wide, and an office-building, 64 feet long by 20 feet wide. No official permission has been given to locate these buildings upon the Battery beyond Mayor GUNTHER'S concession of Gen. DIX'S request in the matter, communicated to the Common Council, which, of itself, is of no effect unless confirmed by that body; but we are happy to add that an unofficial understanding exists with the Common Council that the Mayor's permission will receive their sanction; and this understanding is to the further effect that the "Park Barracks," which disfigure the Park, and are too small for the uses to which they have been put from the necessities of the war, are to be removed as soon as the new buildings on the Battery are completed. The Park Barracks were put up by the State authorities, and by permission of the Common Council, in the spring of 1861, for the temporary accommodation of State troops passing through the City on their way to the seat of war. The new quarters will be, in all respects, advantageous to the health and comfort of the soldiers, for whose temporary use, when arriving here en route to permanent hospitals or home, they are intended.

The Comptroller yesterday appointed JONATHAN W. ALLEN, CHRISTIAN B. WOODRUFF and GEORGE H. PURSER Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, the two last in place of AMOS J. WILLIAMSON and JOSIAH W. BROWN—the first continued in office. Yesterday afternoon the appointees demanded the office and books of the old incumbents, but both were refused, on the ground that the Comptroller had no authority to appoint. The matter will go to the courts.

An effort was made yesterday to hold a meeting of the Commissioners named in the City Tax Law for 1864, to make a contract for cleaning the streets, but they failed to meet. The Commission consists of the Mayor, Comptroller and City Inspector. The object of the meeting was to consider what provision can be made to pay the expenses incurred for street cleaning thus far this year—amounting to over $100,000, it is said.

Mayor GUNTHER has signed the ordinance passed by the Board of Supervisors, providing for issues of twenty-year bonds in redemption of the one-year Riot Damages, Substitute and Belief, and Bounty Fund Bonds. As some of the one-year bonds become payable June 1, the Comptroller will advertise the new issue for the competition of capitalists, as to premium rates for them, right away.

In the Common Pleas, Special Term, yesterday, in the suit of PABLO DE ARIETA vs. JOHN MORRISSEY, to recover $23,000 lost in the faro saloons of defendant, a motion, on appeal, was granted that the complaint be made more definite and certain by setting out the items.

In the Supreme Court, Trial Term, yesterday, a verdict of $3,000 was rendered against JAMES HARRINGTON, in favor of ARABELLA PATTERSON, for injuries sustained by her in consequence of being run over by defendant's wagon. The jury were out but fifteen minutes.

In the Court of Sessions yesterday the calendar was found to be exhausted, and the Grand Jury have not replenished it by any new indictments. His Honor discharged all the jurors until Monday, and adjourned the Court until this morning.

Up to the closing of the Sheriff's office yesterday, there had been no order of arrest served on Surrogate TUCKER, in the action brought against him by Mr. FULLERTON, for false imprisonment; nor, as reliably stated, had the Sheriff any such process in his hands for service.

The order directing the Fourth Regiment National Guard to garrison Fort Richmond for thirty days, has been revoked, and the Thirty-seventh Regiment assigned that duty. They expect to leave to-day.

The Festival of the Ascension was observed by impressive ceremonies in Trinity Church yesterday, and participated in by members of other Episcopal congregations. In the Catholic churches it was celebrated by high mass.

On April 3, CORTINAS, with his Staff, was present at a review of our forces in Brownsville, Texas, and, upon its conclusion, dined with Gen. MCCLERNAND.

Gen. ROSECRANS has caused considerable excitement in St. Louis by issuing an order designed to compel the men who are on "strikes" to resume work.

A letter dated Key West, April 28, announces the arrival of the Galena. She coaled at Nassau on April 18 under difficulties.

The Stock market, except for Government Stocks, was dull and lower yesterday. The price of Gold 2@3 ₱ cent. lower. Money easy. Great interest felt in the Stock Exchange in the news from the Armies of the Potomac and Chattanooga.

A moderate business was transacted in Breadstuffs yesterday at essentially unchanged prices for Flour, Wheat and Corn; Oats, however, were dearer. Provisions were in fair demand, especially Pork, which was held very stiffly. Groceries were rather lightly dealt in. Cotton was more sought after and was advancing. Whisky sold to a fair extent, closing firmly. Moderate Freight engagements were reported.

The Campaign Opened.

Lieut.-Gen. GRANT has spoken the word, and the long-anticipated "forward march" of our great armies has begun. On the first secular day of the current month, the soldiers struck their tents by the Rapidan, and probably also by the Tennessee; and, with rifle and knapsack, with the enthusiasm of volunteers and the stern spirit of veterans, advanced to the struggle with the rebellion.

The movements of our armies are not very well defined to the vision from this point. Of the army of the Potomac it is known that, taking up its advance from its camping ground near Culpepper, it had effected the crossing of the Rapidan by Wednesday morning. Of the coöperating army on the Peninsula, it is reported that a portion advanced to and occupied West Point, at the head of York River, on Monday. From the West, it is reported that on the same day the army at Chattanooga was to move forward in three columns; but the report of this movement is rendered dubious by the latest advices. Now, if any one can deduce the plan of the Virginia campaign from the telegraphic statement that MEADE'S troops crossed the Rapidan at Jacob's, Culpepper, Germanna and Ely's Fords, and from the additional statement that a body of BUTLER'S troops ascended the York River to West Point, he is free to attempt it. The Lieutenant-General in command of all the forces, evidently has determined that the campaign shall soon reach a crisis, for a telegram has been received from him in Washington, dated Wednesday, which says that forty-eight hours would determine whether he was to have a battle on the line of the Rapidan or under the works around Richmond. So that this day is the day of decision. This style of operation is characteristic of GRANT. He prepares for a movement deliberately and carefully, but when once ready for it, his blows fall with tremendous rapidity and vigor. Witness his November battles in front of Chattanooga; witness his marches and battles in the rear of Vicksburgh this month last year; witness his early operations on the Cumberland and Tennessee Rivers.

Of the movements and strategy of the rebel armies, we are no better informed than in the case of our own. LEE, it would seem, has fallen back from his defensive line on the south bank of the Rapidan; but the speculations of the Washington scribe as to his position and plans are not worth much. If we might judge of LEE by his antecedents, we should think he might manœuvre his army very adroitly and deceivingly, and try to strike our forces piecemeal. If there is any detached body operating at a distance from the main army, and beyond the possibility of immediate support, it would not be unlikely that he would rush at it, and try to destroy it, expecting thus at once to effect this lesser object, and disarrange GRANT'S entire plan of campaign. But we shall know in a few days what his mode of action is, as well as what is his success in carrying it out.

We do not suppose Gen. GRANT would be at all unwilling to see LEE'S army fall back to the defences of Richmond. We have an army large enough to lay siege to that place, and LEE has an army large enough to make a stiff and long defence, if he were provided with supplies. He will not go there if he can help it; and if he should be forced in that direction, he will doubtless try to destroy suddenly BUTLER'S army, which we do not believe he can do.

In the brave men on the Rapidan, and in the General who leads them, the country confides. Many of the soldiers who crossed the river in the opening of the week, officers and men, will never again return. But we know that their deeds will compel the plaudits of their country, even while their sacrifices may cause it to mourn.

The Explosion of the Chenango—An Inquiry Needed.

We have been waiting for the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the case of the Chenango before making the inquest the subject of comment; but no verdict seems to be forthcoming. What is the cause of the delay we are not aware: probably the jury cannot agree as to the cause of the explosion. But there were some facts developed by the trial which deserve public attention, whatever verdict the jury may decide to render.

The Chenango, it seems, was one of about thirty gunboats built by the Navy Department—all having engines and boilers constructed according to specifications and plans furnished by the department. She went to sea on her first voyage, the boilers having been tested and the engines run by way of preliminary experiment. Soon after passing the Narrows, just after the Captain had been told by the engineer that the engine was running well, the boiler exploded, scalding thirty-two men, of whom twenty-eight have since died. The whole gunboat fleet has been furnished with engines and boilers just like those of the Chenango. It is, therefore, a matter of a good deal of importance to determine whether the explosion was caused by any peculiarity in those boilers common to all these gunboats, or, by some defect in the boiler of the Chenango alone.

It seems to have been proved that the boiler of this vessel had been subjected to the usual tests, and had resisted a pressure of 60 to 65 pounds to the square inch,—that the safety-valve would blow off steam at 39½ pounds, and that the boiler exploded under a pressure of 34 pounds. Coroner NORRIS, in his elaborate and able charge to the jury, considers it established by the testimony that the explosion was caused by low water in the boiler, which, by creating a sudden and irresistible development of steam, is among the most common causes of such explosions. And it seems also to have been established that, while the boiler and engine were being used at the dock, the water worked out of the boilers into the engine, and so overboard, so freely that over a third of the cylinder would be full of water, and the momentum of the machine was more than once suddenly arrested by this cause. "The danger of explosion from low water at the dock," says the Coroner, "was so great that the last witness refused to open the throttle-valve when requested to do so by the United States engineers on board, who represented that the contract required the engine to be run wide open. The witness said that he considered his own safety endangered, and should act on his own judgment." This was the condition of the Chenango when she was handed over to engineers who had not seen these experiments, to be taken to sea.

The general tenor of the testimony was to the effect that this expulsion of water from the boiler, and consequent liability to explosion, is a marked characteristic of the kind of engine used on the Chenango and all the other gunboats built under direction of the Navy Department. On the day after this explosion a trial trip was made with another of them, which is thus described by the Coroner:

"A number of those vessels are now just coming out, and so it happened that on Saturday, the 16th, the day after this explosion, the Pawtuxet, having been run for 96 hours at the dock, was taken out on a trial trip from Providence. In the course of the run it became necessary to shut off the steam from the engine from some cause, and thus the fact appeared that the water which had seemed to be abundant in the gauges was low. Mr. BAKER, an experienced engineer, who set up and ran the engine on her 96 hours' trial, at once had the fires drawn from the furnaces as a measure of safety, the necessity of which, under the circumstances, Mr. SEWELL [the Government Engineer,] admitted to to you when on the stand; and it was found that the steam-pump required twenty-two minutes to resupply the boiler with the water found wanting, although the gauges had given no warning of its absence. But for Mr. BAKER this accident would have probably had its counterpart; and so convinced of the danger of the machine was Mr. BAKER that he refused to come to New-York in the vessel unless he had the control given him; and he has told us these facts, and sworn to the danger."

So also Mr. SMITH, the engineer who ran another of these vessels, the Metacomet, testified that

"The water could only be kept in her boilers by so setting the valves that they would not fully open when the engine worked, and that when these valves were ordered by Mr. SEWELL to be set so as to open wider, and the vessel was run from the shop to the Navy-yard, the water worked so that the valves had to be put back to their original position, which was done by himself at the Navy-yard under orders from the chief engineer of the ship."

Without going into further detail at present, the testimony in this case, as summed up in the Coroner's charge to the jury, tends to show that the Navy Department has constructed the engines and boilers for our entire fleet of gunboats on such a plan as to render an explosion in every case almost certain, and has thus made these gunboats infinitely more formidable to our own officers and sailors than they can ever be to the enemy. And what gives the matter still more significance is the fact that for more than a year past engineers and scientific men have pointed out these defects, and have warned the Government of the inevitable results of the course that was pursued. Yet, in the face of all these warnings, without inquiry, denouncing, indeed, all expostulations as corrupt and impertinent, the Navy Department has persevered, under the advice and authority of Mr. ISHERWOOD, the Chief Engineer of that department, in forcing into every gunboat which it built, this particular kind of boiler.

When this investigation was in progress, the Secretary of the Navy promised that Mr. ISHERWOOD should attend the inquest and give his testimony in the case. A day was fixed for his attendance, and he was in this City at the time appointed; but instead of presenting himself to testify, he wrote a note to the Coroner, stating that "urgent business" required his immediate return to Washington. His explanation of the matter, therefore, is still to come.

We submit that Congress owes it to the country to order some decisive test of the character and safety of the boilers and engines which have been put into this fleet of gunboats. The case of the Chenango and the others mentioned show abundant cause for such inquiry, and, in the hands of practical men, there cannot be the slightest difficulty in making such experiments as shall be perfectly conclusive. The Navy Department has resisted every attempt at inquiry, and has resented every imputation on these boilers as impeaching its own integrity. But, certainly, neither pride of official opinion, nor any other motive, either personal or professional, should be allowed to fill our navy with vessels formidable only to those who are on board. We hope Congress will give this matter prompt attention.

General Grant's Reticence—Its Grand Promise.

According to an Eastern story, a prince of Persia once asked a philosopher of his court what he required to render him perfect. The sage replied with more sincerity than flattery, "The art of silence." The prince was a weak man, or he would have had no need to be told this. The keeping great counsels, when made, always goes with the ability to make them. First-rate capacity never babbles. It is always self-contained. That sort of intellectual fibre which engenders great conceptions is sure to be strong enough to keep them back until their hour come. That sort of will, too, which alone is equal to the highest mastery is sure, first of all, to master itself. It is your loose natures that carry loose tongues—your pretenders that are the least reticent. "My hand of iron was not at the extremity of my arm; it was immediately connected with my head," said BONAPARTE. He kept his plans to himself. He confided nothing. He was at no man's mercy. It was thus that he was never betrayed, never surprised. It was thus that he a thousand times struck his enemies with the suddenness of a thunderbolt.

During the two months in which Lieut.-Gen. GRANT has borne the prime responsibility, he has been conceiving his designs and maturing his plans with an impenetrable reserve. While displaying the utmost energy in bringing the instrument with which he is to do his work to its highest perfection, he has yet made no disclosures in regard to the time when, or the place where, or the manner how, that instrument is to be used. His plans have been as unknown to the public men in Washington as to the people at large, and his rebel enemies have acknowledged their utter inability to get any satisfactory clue to them. This is entirely a new condition of things in the operations of the Army of the Potomac. Under MCCLELLAN, not a movement, great or small, was undertaken which was not well known in advance by his enemies, and prepared for just as understandingly as if every detail of it had been trumpeted. He was all the while meditating surprises, and was all the while himself surprised by finding his enemy "in overwhelming force" just where he didn't expect him. This constant baffling at last became such a scandal, that MCCLELLAN'S friends finally sought to throw the responsibility of it upon the loquacity of the authorities in Washington. Even had it been true, it would have been a pitiful excuse. Had Gen. MCCLELLAN the force of character indispensable to a great Commander, he would have insisted, as Gen. GRANT has done, on being the sole originator and the sole keeper of his plans, and he would have made that an absolute condition of his retaining command. The demand would have been so reasonable that the Administration would not have dared to withhold, even if it had been inclined to do so; for when MCCLELLAN first took command of that army he was as strong in the confidence of the people as even GRANT is to-day, and this even though he had not been tried at all. But the truth is that MCCLELLAN'S secrets were babbled in his own camp, through men to whom he himself voluntarily confided them. The conclusive evidence of this is found in the fact that the letters of the army correspondents of the time constantly prefigured every movement before it was made—Gen. MCCLELLAN neither stopping their communicativeness, nor closing up their sources of information. It would be difficult to say which contributed most to his deplorable failures—his lack of resolution or his lack of reticence. In fact, both were only different manifestations of the same natural laxity.

Thank Heaven, the Army of the Potomac is now under a very different lead. A soldier is at its head, who is alike master of it, and of himself. He has already begun his active work, yet the combinations by which he will effect it are still but a matter of surmise and conjecture. The people, and the army itself, will not clearly understand them, until read with that most instructive of all commentaries, the actual result. For that development the people will wait with intense solicitude, and yet with strongest expectations. They look for great things, and with reason. All the splendid prestige that Gen. GRANT brought to his new field from the Southwest has not only been sustained, but has been made the more impressive by the manner in which he has taken the Army of the Potomac in hand. Though that army is at least three times larger than any force ever before under his command, his method of reorganizing it, the facility with which he has comprehended and provided for its necessities, has attested his masterly capacity; and with a confidence never felt before, the army now march forward to the execution of his yet unrevealed plans. We shall soon have mighty battles—doubtless one at least of a magnitude never yet seen in the war. In all human probability they will be the decisive battles of the struggle. God grant that the auspicious beginning may have a triumphant consummation.

The New Movement for Economy.

We published yesterday the constitution and the address of the new society in Washington among the ladies, for the promotion of economy in the purchase of foreign imports. This is undoubtedly a movement most wise and patriotic. It will produce a marked impression through the whole country. There are some points, both in the rhetoric and the political economy of the address which we might find fault with. But in view of the noble and self-sacrificing objects of the association, these things are not to be considered. Still, it would be well for other ladies, who are forming similar associations, to remember that the limited exports of gold per se, is not an evil in a country which produces gold, any more than the export of petroleum. But without going into the necessities of the influence of gold on our currency and on exchange, the grand and simple fact remains, patent to all—that a nation is made up of individuals and cannot expend its surplus on luxuries and at the same time carry on a war, any more than an individual. We can possibly have only so much means to waste or destroy, and if we consume them all in one way, we cannot in another.

A skillful financial writer has made a careful calculation that this Nation could save $500,000,000 per annum, merely by a slight reduction in its daily expenditures, which it would hardly feel—so high is the scale of living here. This five hundred millions, which now is mainly wasted in luxuries and extravagancies, would, if saved, at once go into permanent investments to feed laborers and add to the taxable wealth of the country, and into Government Loans. Each individual, it is true, would deposit his savings in bank, or invest it in railroad securities, or make permanent improvements with it, but in all these cases, it would help the Government and the people to bear the burdens of the war. Gold would come down under such economy and Government credit rise.

The Washington ladies have this most patriotic purpose in view—to help the Government in its time of trial, by sacrificing their luxuries. It would be a shame to the very name of woman, that she should not join most heartily in such a movement, when it was once opened to her. When she has offered father and brother and lover in this tremendous struggle, that she could not offer silks and satins and jewelry is not for a moment to be thought. No part of society have been more ready and eager to sacrifice more in this fearful war than our women. They have stood with tearful eyes, as long processions of friends went forth to wounds and death, praying only for something to do for their country and not to be left alone in inglorious safety and idleness, while others were periling all things. They have plied the busy needle for the soldier. They have stored our hospitals with comforts for the sick, and watched over the wounded and dying. Everywhere they have cherished the fires of patriotism. Now, in the severest financial stress of the Government, they have voluntarily come forward like their heroic ancestors of the Revolution, to yield up their luxuries and indulgences, for the sake of the country. They have felt, too, the inconsistency of this popular carnival of gluttony and display, when our brothers and friends were dying in hospitals or laid in bloody graves, or exposed to wounds and death.

We shall hope, too, for a broader and deeper influence from this movement, for at least some years. There is no doubt that every class in America is by far too extravagant, in proportion to its means. No such lavish expenditure is ever seen in corresponding classes in Europe. The wives of clerks and mechanics with $600 or $800 a year in London, do not think of buying pianos and silks. A shopkeeper or college professor, with $1,500 income per annum in Germany, would seldom live in such a house as the like class here; nor indeed would they expect to have a whole house at all. And so on in every class. The expenditure is out of proportion in America to the income. We need economy to be preached from every pulpit and press, even if we were at peace.

This society, of the first ladies in the nation, and other similar societies forming in this City and elsewhere, will preach this duty in tones which will reach every class. We expect profound and most useful results from this excellent movement.

A BOLTING CONVENTION.—In another column will be found a call for a convention at Cleveland on the 31st inst., "for consultation and concert of action in respect to the approaching Presidential election." Its declared object is to assert independence of the Baltimore Convention, and its ulterior purpose is doubtless to put an independent candidate into the field. It is signed by a motley collection of some fifty individuals, most of whom have never before been heard of, and all professing to act for "the People's Committee," which is as mythical as the Egerian nymph. The reasons assigned for this fantastic movement are that the one-term principle is consecrated by time, and that Baltimore "has not the essential conditions of a truly national convention," inasmuch as it is very far from the geographical centre, and very near the commercial and political foci, and inasmuch, too, as the mode of summoning the convention has been wrong, and plenty of corruption will prevail. We suppose the signers call themselves Union men, though there is not a word in their pronunciamento that denotes it, nor a sentiment that is not daily expressed by the rankest Copperheads in the land. The whole thing is factious in tone, and ridiculous in argument. The men who go to Cleveland on the strength of it will only make themselves the laughing-stock of the country. Nothing they can do can possibly acquire importance enough to make them the objects of indignation. If they are anxious to quit the Union party, they can do it a great deal cheaper than by making such an absurb fuss about it. The window is open. The world is wide. The Union party, though it does hate Copperheads, is as magnanimous toward little, buzzing, stinging flies, as Uncle Toby himself.

AMUSEMENTS.

PHILADELPHIA ACADEMY OF MUSIC—PRODUCTION OF MR. FRY'S NEW OPERA, NOTRE DAME OF PARIS.—In accordance with extensive announcement, and after an amount of preparation that has rarely been bestowed on any work of art, Mr. FRY'S opera of "Notre Dame of Paris" was produced at the Philadelphia Academy on Wednesday evening. The fact that it can be produced is therefore established. There never could have been any real doubt on the subject, but one of our best managers had to return the manuscript, because some of his unamiable company declared that it contained impossibilities, and hence we refer to it. The Sanitary Commissioners, whose fair is shortly to commence, accepted the work as an offering to the cause, and brought it out as the leading feature of their musical programme, being assisted in that labor by the members of Mr. FRY'S own family, who, it is understood, contributed liberally to the expences of the undertaking. May the tree thus planted bear good fruits in the future.

The libretto of "Notre Dame" is by Mr. J. R. FRY—a gentleman who woos the Muses as an airy relaxation from the sterner duties of life. VICTOR HUGO'S famous mediæval romance has of course furnished the subject. The exigencies of the lyric stage, however, have necessitated certain alterations and modifications, both in situation and character, and it is due to Mr. J. R. FRY to say that these variations are always made with taste. The versification is unusually clear and melodious, and incomparably better than we find it in the most popular libretti of the day. Mr. W. H. FRY was fortunate in finding within the range of his own family a collaborateur of such positive excellence.

It is known, of course, that Mr. W. H. FRY, as the musical editor of the New-York Tribune, and his opera of "Leonora" will be remembered as an early and meritorious work, which at the time of its production enjoyed considerable popularity. It was revived a few years since at the New-York Academy of Music, under conditions that rendered success impossible. "Notre Dame" is an entirely new score, and we are glad to be able to say at once a much better one than its predecessor. It consists of four acts, written in a fluent Italian style; the only style recognized by Mr. FRY as appropriate for the delineation of musical subjects. Opinions are divided on this question, but the gentleman is certainly true to his own theory. The repertoire of the Academy does not contain a work more thoroughly imbued with the spirit and fire of Italy. In the extraordinary dearth of composers, it is remarkable that one who possesses such gifts should have been slighted so long, and so persistently. "Notre Dame" is as good as the average opera that comes to us now from Europe. With the steadiness that follows practice, and the economy that experience teaches, it is evident that the pen which has here found so many happy fancies could easily find more and do better.

The noticeable defect of "Notre Dame" springs from a disregard to prudential restraints. The wary composer, like the Irish postillion, saves a gallop for the end; Mr. FRY, on the contrary, is lavish and improvident from the commencement. In the first and second acts, he calls in all his auxiliary aids. Neither the eye nor the ear can be astonished afterward, however much they may both be charmed. It follows as a matter of course, therefore, that the third and fourth acts are, with the exception of a ballet scene, comparatively tame. Nothing can exceed the animation of the earlier portion of the opera, or in fact approach it.

Although there is an abundance of square melodies they are so deftly interwoven in the main texture that they cannot be readily taken away by the ear. The hearer's impression is a general one, involving much that is delightful in the way of music, and everything that can be imagined in the way of gorgeous spectacle. The first act is devoted almost exclusively to scenic and spectacular combinations. There are processions of ecclesiastics, soldiers, peasants, maskers and others; a military band, and an organ pealing through the open portals of the church. In the second act we have again the organ, used in combination with a peal of real bells; a grand military chorus, with band a la "Faust," and a scene similar to that employed in the last act of "Rigoletto." From this point the music becomes quieter. The best part of the opera will be found in the second act, the whole of which is admirable. Mr. FRY has been most successful in writing for the low-pitched voices. The baritone, bass, and contralto parts are the best. The gayety and brilliancy of the soprano is sometimes a little overstrained and the tenor is not likely to fall in love with himself. In the very important matter of instrumentation, Mr. FRY is particularly happy. Some of the scenes are tone-colored with absolute felicity. The rather coarse vehemency of the brass band, must, however, be excepted from this praise.

The opera was produced under the direction of Mr. L. F. HARRISON, of Irving Hall, and was more than a credit to that enterprising and able manager. We have had nothing in New-York equal to the tableaux presented on Wednesday night. They were superb. The chorus, too, composed of amateurs as well as professionals, was admirable. It was the best, freshest and most prompt chorus we have heard in America. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. THEODORE THOMAS, numbered upward of sixty performers, and was all that could be desired. There was a military band of thirty and a drum corps of ten, so that in some of the scenes upward of three hundred persons were employed. It remains for us to add that the opera was a complete success, and will be repeated. The leading rôles were sustained by Mme. BORCHARD, Mr. WM. CASTLE, Mr. S. C. CAMPBELL and Mr. SEGUIN, all of whom acquitted themselves conscientiously and well.

MRS. BARNEY WILLIAMS.—We beg to draw the attention of our readers to the benefit of this admirable artist and estimable lady, to take place this evening at Niblo's Garden. She presents an entertainment of unusual attraction—the Yankee comedy of "The Customs of the Country," in which she appears in one of her special characters, and the Irish drama of "The Connie Soogah," supported by her clever husband, rollicking "BARNEY," and the entire resources of Mr. WHEATLEY'S establishment.

Prayers for Our Army.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Allow me, through your columns, to comfort the heart of a "Mother of Soldiers," by assuring her that throughout New-England, from the pulpit, the hearthstone and the closet, prayer ascends to God without ceasing, for the success of our arms in the coming conflict, and for the final triumph of truth and right. We are learning to "cease from man," and while our hearts quiver, they trust in the Lord.

A SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

Note from Dr. W. H. Draper.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I was surprised to find in your paper of yesterday a letter under the caption of "The Public Health," purporting to come from me. The letter is a fabrication, and does as little credit to the scientific education of the writer as it does to his moral honesty. I cannot conceive the design of the communication unless it was written in the interest of the guardians of the public health, and intended to shift the responsibility of a pestilence from them to the personal uncleanliness and intemperance of the people. If such was the case you will expose a paltry political trick, while you do justice to a constant reader by the publication of this card.

W. H. DRAPER, M. D.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, May 4, 1864.

[The note referred to in the preceding had the ordinary evidence of genuineness, and probably its writer had no purpose of misrepresentation. Though there is but one Dr. DRAPER in the Directory, we understand that there are more than two in the City. —ED. TIMES.]

NEW-YORK SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES.

THE NEW-YORK SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES is published THIS MORNING, and may be had at the counter of the publication office in wrappers ready for mailing. Price FIVE CENTS. In addition to the latest intelligence by telegraph up to the moment of going to press, there will be found in the current number full details of all military movements in the different departments from the pens of our special correspondents, also, all official orders, reports and documents, and the latest and fullest Washington news, European news, with graphic letters from our correspondents in London and Paris, giving the tone of public feeling abroad, is made a special and permanent feature. In addition to Editorials on all the current topics of the day, the SEMI-WEEKLY TIMES has a page of carefully prepared commercial matter, giving the latest financial news and market reports: items of agricultural and domestic interest, compiled from sources many of which are otherwise inaccessible to the American reader; and marriages and deaths of the week.

The "SEMI-WEEKLY RECORD," or news summary—being a careful synopsis and digest of the news of the day, both rebellion and general—is alone worth double the subscription price to the paper, as it preserves in a condensed and conveniently classified form all news of interest, and must prove valuable as a record to all time.

TERMS.—One copy one year, $3; two copies one year, $5; five copies one year, $12. Fresh names may at any time be added to Clubs, both of the WEEKLY and SEMI-WEEKLY, at Club rates.

To Military Men.—From Milton P. Pierce, Esq., Commandant Pierce's Sharp Shooters, Buffalo, N. Y.: "Every Drill-master, or officer who drills his men, suffers to a greater or less extent from irritation of the throat. I have at times suffered severely, especially when afflicted with a cold so common to camp life. A few weeks since I was suffering from sore throat and excessive hoarseness, when a friend of mine (a clergyman) advised me to use your 'Bronchial Troches.' I tried them, and found the relief almost instantaneous. I keep them in my pocket when on drill and find them a sure relief. No officer should be without 'Brown's Bronchial Troches.' I cannot forbear to record, unsolicited, my humble testimonial in favor of your 'Bronchial Troches.'

Morton's Gold Pens are now sold at the same prices as before the commencement of the war; this is entirely owing to the Manufacturer's improvements in machinery, his present large Retail Business and Cash-in-Advance System; for, until he commenced advertising, his business was done on Credit and strictly with the Trade.

The Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, as the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c.; but Morton has in no case changed his prices, wholesale or retail.

Of the great numbers sent by mail to all parts of the world during the past few years, not one in a thousand has failed to reach its destination in safety; showing that the Morton Gold Pen can be obtained by any one, in every part of the world, at the same price, postage only excepted

Reader, you can have an enduring, always ready, and reliable Gold Pen, exactly adapted to your hand and style of writing, which will do your writing vastly cheaper than Steel Pens; and at the present almost universal High-Pressure Price of everything, you can have a Morton Gold Pen cheaper, in proportion to the labor spent upon it and material used, than any other Gold Pen in the World. If you want one, see "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword," in another column.

Messrs. W. Chilton & Co.:

You have asked me what good effects I experienced from using "ROMAINE'S CRIMEAN BITTERS," which you so kindly placed at my disposal, after a severe attack of Typhoid Fever. I will say that I experienced very much benefit from its use, and was enabled to resume my duties in a much shorter time than I expected, after so severe an illness. By its use my digestive organs resumed their functions quickly. An article prepared so carefully as it is, and from so valuable medicines, cannot, in my opinion, fail to do good when properly used.

U. S. 10-40 BONDS.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any State or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption, FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually, and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds, as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

OVER EIGHT PER CENT. INTEREST in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,837,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to $150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the First National Bank of New-York, No. 4 Wall-st.
Second National Bank of New-York, 23d-st. and B'way.

THE CASE OF HUTCHINGS, THE "LIGHTNING CALCULATOR."

There was published in these columns a few days since the remarkable cure of Hutchings, the "Lightning Calculator," so well known to the public during the many years he exhibited his wonderful arithmetical powers at Barnum's Museum, by the celebrated Oculist and Aurist, Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Hutchings is represented to have been at the point of death, and but for the timely interference of the Doctor, would now be resting in his grave. This is a remarkable case, and worthy of the attention of persons similarly afflicted.

We think it is but just to Doctor Von Eisenberg to call public attention to this case. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, who, like the "Lightning Calculator," if not actually praying for death, are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, trifle not with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the honesty to assure his patients whether it is within his power to make them whole or not.

From the Tribune.

EARS TO THE DEAF.

Every man, and especially every woman, believes in his or her physician. There are philosophical minds which hold to an abstract faith in Allopathy, or Homeopathy, or Hydropathy, or some other form of scientific cure; but with the world at large the belief is not in the system, but in the doctor. Especially is this true as regards aurists and oculists. The patient who has recovered his sight or his hearing is sure that the blessing could have been restored to him by no other practitioner than that particular one by whom his eyes or ears were opened. Dr. Von Eisenberg is among our best-known aurists. He has not lent us ears as a brother practitioner has eyes, and in whose skill, therefore, we believe above all others. But we hear of him from those who esteem him not merely as a surgeon, but as a benefactor. A recent case has been related to us, for the truthfulness of which we can vouch, though we can name no names. The patient was a lady who had been deaf from infancy, as a consequence of some of the ailments to which children are liable. Latterly the disease had taken an acute form, and the patient was subject to intense suffering. The deafness was rapidly becoming complete, and the general health breaking down under the physical exhaustion attendant upon constant pain. Ordinary remedies and ordinary advice were useless, and Dr. Von Eisenberg was called in. We need not repeat his diagnosis, for that would be only a list of hard names to the general reader. But he detected at sight the seat of disease, first in one portion of the organism, then in another, and with manipulation as skillful as his insight was accurate, he removed the causes, and she who, from infancy, had heard with difficulty, and latterly hardly at all, was restored first to perfect hearing and then to perfect health. Dr. Von Eisenberg's advertisement reminds us of this case, which we thus briefly relate, though not at his solicitation. Let him that hath not ears, hear.

From the Christian Times.

SIGHT RESTORED.

CONCERNING EYES AND OCULISTS.

Of the five senses, that which we call seeing is the most important and most valued. In proportion as this sense fails us, we are reduced to helplessness. If entirely destitute of sight, how slow would be our progress in knowledge, and how limited our sphere of action and usefulness. Endowed with it, the universe becomes a new creation, clothed with beauty and diversified by that infinite variety which never fails to attract the mind and heart.

For several months past this has been a practical subject to us. An inflamed condition of the eyelids communicating itself to the pupil, rendered the discharge of daily duties not only painful, but dangerous. Attributing it to the effect of a cold, we endured it through the Spring, with the hope that with the return of warm weather it would entirely disappear. But in this we were doomed to disappointment. Summer returned, but not our wonted sight. What might have been the result, either of further neglect or of incompetent treatment, we cannot say.

Stating our case to a friend, he assured us that a similar one in his own family had recently been treated with entire success by Dr. Von Eisenberg, of this City. Satisfying ourselves by more particular inquiries that the doctor is no empiric, but a scientific oculist and aurist, we concluded to seek the benefits of his treatment, which we have now reason to acknowledge is very great. Though but a few weeks under his care, the appearance of our eyes has totally changed. The pupil is now full and clear, and the lids are entirely free from inflammation. The doctor says that the optic nerve has been weakened and the retina assumed a chronic inflammatory state, affecting more or less all the other tissues, and threatening, if neglected, to end in Amaurosis. Opthalmitis, is the term we believe, which oculists apply to eyes affected as were ours. Having obtained the much desired relief, we take great pleasure in acknowledging our indebtedness to the talent of Dr. Von Eisenberg, and of calling to it the attention of others who may be suffering from a similar or even worse condition of their eyes. It is said that Providence provides an antidote for every bane. It is certain that the eye is, in these times, subject to severer trials than formerly. Let us be thankful, then, that as we increase the tendencies which destroy the organ of vision, the progress of science keeps pace with these tendencies, if not in advance of them.

NEW-YORK,
ON DEAFNESS, CATARRH, DISEASES OF THE EYE, EAR AND THROAT.

CROSS EYES STRAIGHTENED WITH BUT LITTLE PAIN IN A FEW MINUTES.
HOURS, 10 A. M. TO 3 P. M.

Extract of Symptoms of Catarrh, from Dr. Rowe's Treatise on Catarrh.

It produces a feeling of uneasiness, heat and stiffness of the nostrils, which are often closed on one or both sides, caused by the thickening of the membrane from inflammation; soon a thin, watery discharge commences, excoriating that part of the skin with which it comes in contact. If the disease is not checked then, the discharge soon becomes purulent, of a greenish yellow color, sometimes tinged with blood, with an odor more or less disagreeable, and sometimes very offensive. The breath of the patient becomes so revoltingly offensive as to isolate him from society, and render him an object of disgust to himself. The discharge frequently drops down the throat, and has to be hawked up to obtain relief—the senses of smell and taste become greatly impaired, and sometimes entirely lost—a distressing headache makes its appearance as the frontal bone sinuses become involved, and neuralgic pain in the face and head as soon as the other sinuses become affected. At night sleep is often interrupted, a sensation of dryness in the mouth and throat, thirst and feverishness generally being produced. In the morning a coated tongue and a disagreeable taste in the mouth are frequent, as also dizziness. Some persons become very drowsy, more especially during the day, after eating. After a time the memory becomes impaired, a restless, nervous feeling accompanying it—seriously affecting a close application to study; in short, a general restlessness of mind. Many are disposed to be costive. If the inflammation extends through the tear passage to the eye and inflames that organ, it causes the tears to overflow upon the slightest irritation or exposure, producing what is commonly called "Weeping Eye." If it extends through the Eustachian tubes to the middle ear, the hearing becomes more or less impaired; if it extends down the throat it gives rise to dyspepsia, bronchitis, and to CONSUMPTION. The experience and investigations of the greatest savans in medical science have established the fact that in fully two-thirds of the cases of consumption it commenced by inflammation and ulceration of the air passages. It must be remembered that the best and only cure of consumption is its prevention.

CURE OF CATARRH.

It may not be out of place to mention what I have found to be the absurd idea among some persons that catarrh, if checked, will go to the lungs. The directly opposite is the effect. If not checked, it will most assuredly, in most instances, affect the lungs. Never yet was there any one whose health was not better after being cured of catarrh, the treatment being constitutional as well as local.

Beside the following references, many others can be obtained from Dr. Rowe, of the highest respectability. No one's name is used unless strictly in accordance with their permission.

From Mr. Charles Lockitt.

BROOKLYN, April 8, 1864.

I wish to add my testimony in favor of Dr. Rowe's method of treatment of catarrh.

CHAS. LOCKITT, No. 251 Fulton-st., Brooklyn.

We, the undersigned, feeling that we are being and have been greatly benefited by Dr. Rowe, by his treatment for catarrh, and believing it to be the most practicable method of treatment, recommend those similarly afflicted to avail themselves of it.

Beside these, other references can be had on application to Dr. Rowe.

From Mr. Thomas S. Day, of Brooklyn.
No. 228 PEARL-ST., BROOKLYN, N. Y., September 13, 1863.

For the benefit of those similarly afflicted, I make the following statement: For ten years my daughter was afflicted with Catarrh, which gradually grew worse until it had so impaired her health that we felt convinced she must die. The discharge from the head and throat was incessant, frequently accompanied by blood. After having tried every one and everything in vain, as a last resort, I called on Dr. Rowe, under whose care she has been entirely cured and restored to the enjoyment of excellent health.

THOMAS S. DAY.

From Mr. George Levy, of New-York.
No. 67 CLINTON-ST., NEW-YORK, January 11, 1864.

For five years I was afflicted with Catarrh, which produced incessant and violent headache, stoppage of the nostrils, sore throat, and a constant falling of mucus in the throat, which kept me incessantly hawking it up. It also affected my eyesight, taste, and voice. Under Dr. Rowe's care I have been entirely cured of Catarrh, and the above effects arising from it.

GEORGE LEVY.

REMARKS ON THE CURE OF DEAFNESS AND DISCHARGES FROM THE EAR.

It can safely be said that there is no case of discharges of the ear but what can be entirely and permanently cured; and in most cases where, as is usually the case, deafness accompanies it, the hearing can be either entirely cured or materially improved. Like all diseases there are some cases of deafness that cannot even be benefited, but in the majority of cases the hearing can either be entirely cured or remarkably benefited. It can always be checked and prevented from growing worse.

It is an erroneous idea that where discharges of the ear are checked it will be thrown in the system, and will make its appearance somewhere else in a more aggravated form. A directly contrary effect I have always found in cases that I have treated, the health of the patient being much more robust after the discharge has been checked. I am yet to see a case where it has impaired the health of the patient by being stopped. Let any one disposed to think any injurious effects can arise from its being stopped ask themselves the question, "Is it natural for the ear to discharge?" No, certainly not. Then can it be beneficial to have an offensive discharge, rendering you disgusting to every one with whom you are brought in contact, constantly running from your ears, or can it be injurious to check it?

CAUTION TO PARENTS.

Parents are apt to think that their children will outgrow discharges from their ears or Catarrhal affections. Never were they laboring under a greater mistake. How many instances are there where they have outgrown them? It must be acknowledged that there have been cases, but they are the exception to the rule, and very few and very far between—not one in a hundred. In many cases where they have been allowed to continue unchecked, the membrana tympani or drumhead has become perforated and the drum injured, thus precluding all possibility of restoring the hearing. Is any parent willing to run such a risk?

In Catarrh the disease grows with the child, and either terminates in consumption or deafness. These two diseases in children cannot be checked too soon.

CASES OF DEAFNESS AND DISCHARGES FROM THE EAR CURED.

From Caleb Sager, Esq., of Trenton, N. J.
TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 25, 1863.

This is to certify that my daughter, having been afflicted for eighteen years with deafness and discharges from both ears, caused from scarlet fever when two years old, I placed her under the care of Dr. Rowe. Now her hearing is restored; she hears quite distinctly, and the discharges from both ears are entirely stopped. From my intercourse with Dr. Rowe, I feel justified in recommending him as a gentleman well versed in the diseases he makes a specialty of.

CALEB SAGER,
Steward State Lunatic Asylum.

No. 74 MONTGOMERY-ST.,
TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 6, 1862.

This is to certify that I placed my daughter under the care of Dr. Rowe for deafness and discharges from both ears, they discharging much, and at times blood—caused from scarlet fever. Previous to this she had been under the care of a great many physicians, some of them the most eminent physicians in Philadelphia, without any benefit being derived. Now the discharges are entirely stopped, and her hearing so much improved that she can hear conversation in a low tone of voice. For the benefit she has derived I feel great pleasure in recommending Dr. Rowe to others similarly afflicted.

A variety of themes, which are treated with that calm, philosophical and scholastic habit of thought for which the author is distinguished. No one can read him without having his mental pulse quickened, and his mind newly furnished with the results of a deep thinker's study.—New-York Observer.

The Round Table says:

There is much in the style of Dr. Bushnell, as well as in the mold and treatment of his conceptions, which reminds us of the stately prose of the older writers, now of Milton, now of Jeremy Taylor, and then again of quaint Sir Thomas More. * * * In all his writings, we trace the vigorous workings and the splendid results of a powerful mind, equally moved by a taste for philosophy, for poetry and for politics.

MEDICAL.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO, No. 50 Lispenard-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call on it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st. Call, send, or write.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH regained in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitution, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habits? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALES POWERS, M.D., No. 50 Lispenard-st., between Broadway and Church-st., New-York.

CAUTION.—CHLORODYNE—IN CHANCERY.—It was clearly proved before Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood, by affidavits from eminent hospital physicians in London, that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's.—See Times, Jan. 12, 1864. The public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, which is affirmed by medical testimonials to be the most efficacious medicine ever discovered for Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Spasms, Rheumatism, &c. No home should be without it. J. T. DAVENPORT, No. 33 Great Russell-st., London, sole manufacturer. Observe particularly, none genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Stamp. Agent, New-York, Mr. JAMES ASPINWALL, William-st.

DR. COBBETT, MEMBER OF THE N. Y. University, (Medical College,) and Royal College of Surgeons, London, has removed from No. 19 Duane-st. to his present very convenient suite of offices at No. 22 Centre-st., between Chambers and Reade sts., with a private street door. Until that place, where he can be consulted with the most honorable confidence on all diseases affecting the urinary organs; thirty years in his present specialty, (three of which have been at the Hospitals of this City,) enable him to guarantee a cure in every case undertaken, or make no charge. Strictures of the urethra, impotency, seminal weaknesses, &c., treated on the most scientific principles. N. B.—As a proof of Dr. C.'s qualifications, he would call special attention to his Diplomas, which can be seen in his office.

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY FOR GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.

All sufferers from the above complaints, either of recent or long standing, are advised to use Blair's Gout and Rheumatic Pills. They can be relied upon as the most safe and effectual remedy ever offered to the public, and have been universally used in Europe for many years with the greatest success.

Prepared by PROUT & HARBANT, No. 229 Strand, London, England; and sold by their Agents, F. C. WELLS & CO., 115 Franklin-st., and by most Druggists.

Her Majesty's Commissioners have authorized the name and address of "Thomas Prout, No. 229 Strand, London," to be impressed upon the Government stamp affixed to each box of the genuine medicine.

IMPORTANT TO THE MARRIED AND THOSE ABOUT TO BE MARRIED.—Dr. A. M. MARICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, has a most valuable book entitled "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION," strictly intended for those whose health or circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family, with full instructions for restoring the most delicate to sickness. Price $1. Sold at his office, 129 Liberty st., New-York; or can be sent by mail, free of postage, to any part of the United States and Canada, by inclosing $1, and addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP CURES CERtain diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting or sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours. It roots out the poisonous taint the blood is sure to absorb unless this remedy is used. It is one dollar a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the office, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City. A book that treats of the dreadful effects of early abuse. Two hundred pages. Sent by mail for ten three-cent stamps. Male and Female Preventive, five dollars.

ADVICE TO MARRIED OR SINGLE LADIES, who require a safe and certain remedy for removing obstructions, from whatever cause. Can rely upon the celebrated INFALLIBLE FRENCH FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS. No. 1, price $1 a box, to relieve the monthly sickness in forty-eight hours, if of short standing; but obstinate cases, of long standing, may require No. 2, which are four degrees stronger than No. 1, and can never fail; are safe and healthy, price $5 a box. Sold at No. 127½ Liberty-st., or sent by mail, with full instructions, by addressing Box No. 2,359 N. Y. Post-office.

DR. POWERS' PERIODICAL DROPS are designed for both married and single ladies, and are the very best thing known for the purpose, as they will bring on the monthly sickness in case of obstruction from any cause, and after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. Expressly for obstinate cases. Warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. Beware of imitations! Purchase directly of Dr. POWERS, 50 Lispenard-st. N. Y.

THE FORT PILLOW MASSACRE.

Report of the Committee on the Conduct of the War.

All Previous Reports Fully Confirmed.

The Horrors and Cruelties of the Scene Intensified.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 5.

The following report was made in both Houses to-day:

The Joint Committee on the Conduct and Expenditures of the War, to whom was referred the resolution of Congress instructing them to investigate the late massacre at Fort Pillow, designated two members of the committee, Messrs. WADE and GOOCH, to proceed to such places as they might deem necessary and take testimony. That sub-committee having discharged that duty, returned to this city, and submitted to the committee a report, with the accompanying papers and testimony. The report was read and adopted by the committee, whose chairman was instructed to submit the same, with the testimony, to the Senate, and ask the same to be printed.

REPORT OF THE SUB-COMMITTEE.

Messrs. WADE and GOOCH, the sub-committee appointed by the Joint Committee on the Conduct of the War, with instructions to proceed to such points as they might deem necessary, for the purpose of taking testimony in regard to the massacre at Fort Pillow, submitted the following report to the Joint Committee, together with the accompanying testimony and papers:

In obedience to the instructions of the Joint Committee, adopted the 18th ult., your committee left Washington on the morning of the 19th, taking with them the stenographer of this committee, and proceeded to Cairo and Mound City, Illinois, Columbus, Kentucky, and Fort Pillow and Memphis, Tennessee, at each of which places they proceeded to take testimony.

Although your committee were instructed to inquire only in reference to the attack, capture and massacre at Fort Pillow, they have deemed it proper to take some testimony in reference to the operations of FORREST and his command immediately preceding and subsequent to that horrible transaction. It will appear from testimony thus taken, that the atrocities committed at Fort Pillow were not the result of passions excited by the heat of conflict, but were results of a policy deliberately decided upon, and unhesitatingly announced. Even if the uncertainty of the fate of those officers and men belonging to colored regiments, who have heretofore been taken prisoners by the rebels, has failed to convince the authorities of our Government of this fact, the testimony herewith submitted must convince even the most skeptical that it is the intention of the rebel authorities not to recognize the officers and men of our colored regiments as entitled to the treatment accorded by all civilized nations to prisoners of war.

The declaration of FORREST and his officers, both before and after the capture of Fort Pillow, as testified to by such of our men as have escaped after being taken by him, the threats contained in the various demands for surrender made at Paducah, Columbus, and other places, the renewal of the massacre the morning after the capture of Fort Pillow, the statements made by the rebel officers to the officers of our gun-boats who received the few survivors at Fort Pillow, all these proves most conclusively the policy that was to be adopted.

The first operation of any importance was the attack upon Union City, Tennessee, by a portion of FORREST'S command. The attack was made on the 24th of March. The post was occupied by a force of about 500 men, under Col. HAWKINS, of the Eleventh Tennessee Union Cavalry. The attacking force was superior in numbers, but was repulsed by our own forces. For the particulars of the attack, and the circumstances attending the surrender, your committee would refer to the testimony submitted. They would state, however, that it would appear from the testimony, the surrender was opposed by nearly, if not quite, all the officers of Col. HAWKINS' command. Your committee think the circumstances connected with the surrender are such that they demand the most searching investigation by the military authorities. At the time of the surrender but one man on our side was injured.

On the 25th of March the enemy under the rebel Gens. FORREST, BUFORD, HARRIS, and THOMPSON, estimated at over 6,000 men, made an attack on Paducah, Kentucky, which post was occupied by Col. S. G. HICKS, of the Fortieth Illinois Regiment, with 655 men. Our forces retired into Fort Anderson, and there made their stand, assisted by some gunboats belonging to the command of Capt. SHIRK, of the navy, successfully repelling the attack of the enemy. Failing to make any impression on our forces, FORREST demanded an "unconditional surrender," closing his communication to Col. HICKS in these words: "If you surrender you shall be treated as prisoners of war, but if I have to storm your works you may expect no quarter." This demand and threat was met by a refusal on the part of Col. HICKS to surrender, he stating that he had been placed there by his Government, to defend that post, and he should do so. The rebels made three other assaults that same day, but were repulsed with heavy loss each time, the rebel Gen. THOMPSON being killed in the last assault. The enemy retired next day, having suffered a loss estimated at 1,000 to 1,200 wounded. The loss on our side was 14 killed and 46 wounded.

The operations of the enemy at Paducah were characterized by the same bad faith and treachery that seem to have become the settled policy of FORREST and his command. The flag of truce was taken advantage of there as elsewhere to secure desirable positions which the rebels were unable to obtain by fair honorable means; and also to afford opportunities for plundering private stores as well as Government property. At Paducah the rebels were guilty of acts more cowardly, if possible, than any they have practiced elsewhere. When the attack was made, the officers of the fort and gunboats advised the women and children to go down to the river for the purpose of being taken across out of danger. As they were leaving the town for that purpose, the rebel sharpshooters mingled with them, and, shielded by their presence, advanced and fired upon the gunboats, wounding some of our officers and men. Our forces could not return the fire without endangering the lives of the women and children. The rebels also placed women in front of their lines as they moved on the fort, or were proceeding to take positions, while the flag of truce was at the fort, in order to compel our men to withhold their fire, out of regard for the lives of the women, who were made use of in this most cowardly manner. For more full details of the attack, and treacherous and cowardly practices of the rebels there, your committee refer to the testimony herewith submitted.

On the 13th of April, the day after the capture of Fort Pillow, the rebel Gen. BUFORD appeared before Columbus, Ky., and demanded its unconditional surrender. He coupled with that demand a threat that if the place was not surrendered, and he should be compelled to attack it, no quarter whatever should be shown to the negro troops. To this, Col. LAWRENCE, in command of the fort, replied that the surrender was out of the question, as he had been placed there by his Government to hold and defend the place, and should do so. No attack was made, but the enemy retired, having taken advantage of the flag of truce to take some horses of Union citizens, which had been brought in there for security.

It was at Fort Pillow, however, the brutality and cruelty of the rebels were most fearfully exhibited. The garrison there, according to the last returns received at headquarters, amounted to 19 officers and 538 enlisted men, of whom 262 men were colored troops, comprising one battalion of the Sixth United States Heavy Artillery, formerly the First Alabama Artillery of colored troops, under the command of Maj. L. F. BOOTH, one section of the Second United States Light Artillery, (colored,) and one battalion of the Thirteenth Tennessee Cavalry, (white,) commanded by Maj. A. F. BRADFORD. Maj. B. BOOTH was the ranking officer and was in command of the fort.

On Monday, the 12th of April, the anniversary of the attack on Fort Sumter in April, 1861, the pickets of the garrison were driven in just before sunrise, that being the first intimation our forces there had of any intention on the part of the enemy to attack the place. Fighting soon became general, and about 9 o'clock Maj. BRADFORD succeeded to the command and withdrew all the forces within the fort. They had previously occupied some intrenchments at some distance from the fort and further from the river. The fort was situated on a high bluff, which descended precipitately to the river's edge, the ridge of the bluff on the river side being covered with trees, bushes and fallen timber. Extending back from the river on either side of the fort was a ravine or hollow, the one below the fort containing several private stores and some dwellings, and some Government buildings, containing commissary stores. The ravine above the fort forward, was known as Cold Bank Ravine, the ridge being covered with trees and bushes. To the right or below and a little to the front of the fort was a flevel piece of ground not quite so elevated as the fort itself, on which had been erected some log huts or shanties, which were occupied by the white troops, and also used for hospital and other purposes. Within the fort tents had been erected with board floors for the use of the colored troops. There were six pieces of artillery in the fort, consisting of two six-pounders, two twelve-pounder howitzers, and two ten-pounder Parrotts. The rebels continued their attack, put up to 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon they had not gained any decisive success. Our troops, both black and white, fought most bravely, and were in good spirits. The gunboat number 7 (New Era,) Capt. MARSHALL, took part in the conflict, shelling the rebels as opportunity offered. Signals had been agreed upon by which the officers in the fort could indicate where the guns of the boat could be most effective. There being but one gunboat there, no permanent impression appears to have been produced upon the enemy, for as they were shelled out of one ravine they would make their appearance in the other. They would thus appear and retire as the gunboat moved from one point to the other.

About one o'clock the fire on both sides slackened somewhat, and the gunboat moved out in the river to cool and clean the guns, having fired 282 rounds of shell, shrapnel and canister, which nearly exhausted the supply of ammunition. The rebels, having thus far failed in their attack, now resorted to their customary flags of truce. The first flag of truce conveyed a demand from FORREST for the unconditional surrender of the Fort. To this Maj. BRADFORD replied, asking to be allowed one hour with his officers and the officers of the gunboat.

In a short time the second flag of truce appeared, with a communication from FORREST that he would allow Major BRADFORD twenty minutes in which to move his troops out of the fort, and if it was not done in that time an assault would be ordered. To this Major BRADFORD replied that he would not surrender. During the time these flags were flying the rebels were moving down the ravines, and taking positions from which the more readily to charge upon the fort. Parties of them were also engaged in plundering the Government building and Commissary and Quartermaster stores, in full view of the gunboats. Capt. MARSHALL states that he refrained from firing upon the rebels, although they were thus violating a flag of truce, for fear that, if they should finally succeed in capturing the fort, they might justify any atrocities that might be committed by saying that they were done in retaliation for his firing while a flag of truce was flying. He says, however, that when he saw the rebels coming down the ravine above the fort, taking positions there, he got under way and stood for the fort; he determined to use what little ammunition he had left in shelling out the ravine. But he did not get up within effective range before the final assault was made.

Immediately after the second flag-of-truce retired, the rebels made a rush from the positions they had so treacherously gained, and obtained possession of the fort, raising the cry of "No quarter." But little opportunity was allowed for resistance. Our troops, black and white, threw down their arms and sought to escape by running down the steep bluff near the fort, and secreting themselves behind trees and logs in the bushes and under the brush; some even jumping into the river, leaving only their heads above the water as they crouched down under the bank. Then followed a scene of cruelty and murder without parallel in civilized warfare, which needed but the tomahawk and scalping knife to exceed the worst atrocities ever committed by savages. The rebels commenced an indiscriminate slaughter, sparing neither age nor sex, white nor black soldier nor civilian. The officers and men seemed to vie with each other in the devilish work. Men, women and their children, wherever found, were deliberately cut down, beaten and hacked with sabres. Some of the children, not more than ten years old, were forced to stand up and face their murderers while being shot. The sick and wounded were butchered without mercy, the rebels even entering the hospital buildings and dragging them out to be shot, or killing them as they lay there unable to offer the least resistance. All over the hillside the work of murder was going on. Numbers of our men were collected together in lines or groups and deliberately shot. Some were shot while in the river, while others on the bank were shot and their bodies kicked into the water; many of them still living, but unable to make exertions to save themselves from drowning. Some of the rebels stood upon the top of the hill or a short distance from its side and called to our soldiers to come up to them, and as they approached, shot them down in cold blood, and if their guns or pistols missed fire, forcing them to stand there until they were again prepared to fire.

All around were heard cries of "no quarter," "no quarter," "kill the damned niggers," "shoot them down." All who asked for mercy were answered by the most cruel taunts and sneers. Some were spared for a time only to be murdered under circumstances of greater cruelty. No cruelty which the most fiendish malignity could devise was omitted by these murderers. One white soldier who was wounded in the leg so as to be unable to walk was made to stand up while his tormentors shot him. Others who were wounded and unable to stand up were held up and again shot. One negro who had been ordered by a rebel officer to hold his horse was killed by him when he remonstrated. Another, a mere child, whom an officer had taken up behind him on his horse was seen by CHALMERS, who at once ordered him to put him down and shoot him, which was done. The huts and tents in which many of the wounded had sought shelter were set on fire, both that night and the next morning, while the wounded were still in them, those only escaping who were able to get themselves out, or who could prevail on others less injured to help them out, and even some of these thus seeking to escape the flames were met by these ruffians and brutally shot down, or had their brains beaten out. One man was deliberately fastened down to the floor of a tent, face upward, by means of nails driven through his clothing and into the boards under him, so that he could not possibly escape, and then the tent was set on fire. Another was nailed to the side of a building outside of the fort, and then the building was set on fire and burned. The charred remains of five or six bodies were afterward found, all but one so much disfigured and consumed by the flames that they could not be identified, and the identification of that one is not absolutely certain, although there can hardly be a doubt it was the body of Lieut. ALBERTSON, Quartermaster of the Thirteenth Tennessee Cavalry, and a native of Tennessee. Several witnesses who saw the remains, and who were personally acquainted him while living here, testified that it is their firm belief that it was his body that was thus treated.

These deeds of murder and cruelty closed when night came on only to be renewed the next morning, when the demons carefully sought among the dead lying about in all directions for any other wounded yet alive, and those they found were deliberately shot. Scores of the dead and wounded were found there the day of the massacre by the men from some of our gunboats, who were permitted to go on shore and collect the wounded and bury the dead. The rebels themselves had made a pretence of burying a great number of their victims, but they had merely thrown them without, the least regard to care or decency, into the trenches and ditches about the fort, or the little hollows and ravines on the hill side, covering them but partially with earth. Portions of heads and feet, hands and feet were found protruding through the earth in every direction, and even when your committee visited the spot, two weeks afterwards, although parties of men had been sent on there from time to time to bury the bodies unburied and rebury the others, and were even then engaged in the same work, we found the evidences of this murder and cruelty still most painfully apparent.

We saw bodies still unburied at some distance from the fort, of some sick men who had been met fleeing from the hospital and beaten down and brutally murdered, and their bodies left where they had fallen. We could see the faces and hands and feet of men, white and black, protruding out of the ground whose graves had not been reached by those engaged in reinterring the victims of the massacre, and although a great deal of rain had fallen within the preceding two weeks, the ground, more especially on the side and at the foot of the bluff, where the most of the murders had been committed, was still discolored by the blood of our brave but unfortunate men; and the logs and trees showed but too plainly the evidences of the atrocities perpetrated there.

Many other instances of equally atrocious cruelty might be enumerated. But your committee feel compelled to refrain from giving here more of the heart-sickening details, and refer to the statements contained in the voluminous testimony herewith submitted. Those statements were obtained by them from eye-witnesses and sufferers. Many of them as they were examined by your committee were lying upon beds of pain and suffering, some so feeble that their lips could with difficulty frame the words by which they endeavored to convey some idea of the cruelties which had been inflicted on them and which they had seen inflicted on others.

In reference to the fate of Maj. BRADFORD, who was in command of the fort when it was captured, and who had up to that time received no injury, there seems to be no doubt. The general understanding everywhere seemed to be that he had been brutally murdered the day after he was taken prisoner.

How many of our troops thus fell victims to the malignity and barbarity of FORREST and his followers cannot be definitely ascertained. Two officers belonging to the garrison were absent at the time of the capture and massacre of the remaining officers; but two are known to be living, and they are wounded and now in the hospital at Mound City. One of them, Capt. PORTER, may even now be dead, as the surgeons, when your committee were there, expressed no hope of his recovery. Of the men, from three hundred to four hundred are known to have been killed at Fort Pillow, of whom at least three hundred were murdered in cold blood after the fort was in possession of the rebels and our men had thrown down their arms and ceased to offer resistance. Of the surviving, except the wounded in the hospital at Mound City, and the few who succeeded in making their escape unhurt, nothing definite is known, and it is to be feared that many have been murdered after being taken away from the fort. When your committee arrived at Memphis, Tenn., they found and examined a man, Mr. MCLAGAN, who had been conscripted by some of FORREST'S forces, but who, with other conscripts, had succeeded in making his escape. He testifies that while two companies of rebel troops with Major BRADFORD and many other prisoners were on their march from Brownsville to Jackson, Tenn., Major BRADFORD was taken by five rebels, one an officer, led about fifty yards from the line of march and deliberately murdered in view of all those assembled. He fell, instantly killed by three musket balls, even while asking that his life might be spared, as he had fought them manfully and was deserving of a better fate. The motive for the murder of Major BRADFORD seems to have been the simple fact that, although a native of the South, he remained loyal to his Government.

The testimony herewith submitted contains many statements made by the rebels, that they did not intend to treat "home-made Yankees," as they termed loyal Southerners, any better than negro troops. There is one circumstance connected with the capture of Fort Pillow, the rebel Gen. FORREST, in his official report, takes great pride in stating, and which is fully confirmed by the testimony herein submitted, that he had with him a battalion of Tennessee troops, who had been driven from their homes by the conscription, and who were serving with him for the purpose of retaking their families. Your committee have taken testimony in relation to the case of these men, and find that they were not permitted to see their families, but were kept under guard, and compelled to fight against the Government. Your committee would mention more particularly the names of Gen. MASON BRAYMAN, Military Commandant at Cairo; Capt. J. H. ODLIN, his Chief of Staff; Capt. A. M. PENNOCK, U. S. N., Fleet Captain of the Mississippi squadron; Capt. JAMES W. SHIRK, U. S. N.; Surgeon HORACE WARDNER, in charge of the Mound City General Hospital; Capt. THOS. M. FARRELL, United States Navy, in command of the gunboat Hastings, which was furnished by Capt. PENNOCK to convey the committee to Fort Pillow and Memphis; Capt. THOMAS PATTERSON, Naval Commandant at Memphis; Gen. C. C. WASHBURNE, and the officers of their respective commands, among those to whom they are indebted for assistance and attention.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Chamber of Commerce.

There was a large attendance, yesterday afternoon, at the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. Pesident A. A. LOW presided. A communication was received from Mr. W. C. BRYANT, presenting to the chamber, on benalf of Mr. MORRIS KETCHUM, a portrait of Mr. CORDEN. The picture was accepted with a vote of thanks to Mr. KETCHUM.

TELEGRAPHIC GIRDLE ROUND THE WORLD.

Mr. RUGGLES proposed the following preamble and resolution:

Whereas, The Chamber of Commerce of New-York has received satisfactory information,

First—That the Government of Russia has undertaken to establish and maintain a line of telegraphic communication from Moscow to the Pacific Ocean at the mouth of Amoor River, a distance of about six thousand miles, of which the four thousand miles from Moscow to Irkutz, in Eastern Siberia, are already finished and in operation, with proposed branches leading into China, India and Persia.

Second—That the Russian Government, on the 23d of May last, in a spirit of wise liberality, and after due conference between the Ministers of Russia and the United States, duly granted to Mr. PERRY MACDONOUGH COLLINS, a citizen of the United States of America, the exclusive right for thirty-three years, to extend and maintain said telegraphic line from the mouth of the Amoor River along or near the Pacific Ocean northwestwardly up to and across Behring's Straits; and thence northwestwardly through the American Territories of Russia to the northern line of British America, a distance, in all, of about four thousand five hundred miles.

Third—That the British Government, on the 9th of February last, in pursuance of a policy alike enlightened, granted to COLLINS the further right to extend and maintain said telegraphic line through the British territories on the Pacific to the northern frontier of the United States, a distance of about 500 miles.

Fourth—That the said COLLINS, encouraged and supported by such grants, has now applied to Congress for permission to extend and maintain said telegraphic line through the territories and the public lands of the United States, so as to connect the whole telegraphic systems of Europe and Asia with the telegraphic system of the United States, by means of which great continental conjunctions the Old World and the New, with all their dependencies, will be united by one safe and unbroken chain of intercourse, enabling every civilized nation to communicate daily with all the capital cities of the globe.

Now, therefore, the Chamber of Commerce of New-York, in view of the incalculable advantages of such a world-embracing line of communication, not only to the cities and States of the American continent, but to the whole family of man, do respectfully, but earnestly, commend the application of Mr. COLLINS to the speedy and favorable consideration and support of Congress, subject only to such proper conditions as may be required for the security and protection of the Government and of the people of the United States.

Resolved, That copies of the preceding resolutions be duly authenticated by the President and Secretary, and transmitted to both Houses of Congress.

After some further business of minor importance, the chamber proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows:

Abiel A. Low, President; Wm. E. Dodge, First Vice-President; Jonathan Sturges, Second Vice-President; Edward C. Bogert, Treasurer.

Executive Committee.—Charles H. Marshall, Chairman; Simeon B. Chittenden, Walter S. Griffin, Denning Duer, Nathaniel L. McCready, James Gallatin, Augustus C. Richards, Richard W. Weston, Henry A. Smythe, Benjamin R. Winthrop.

Committee of Arbitration.—Walter S. Griffin, Chairman; George W. Lane, till February, 1865; Francis S. Lathrop, till November, 1864; Simeon B. Chittenden, till August, 1864; Alexander W. Bradford, till May, 1864.

Committee on Mercantile Library.—Charles A Davis, Chairman; Wm. Barton, Henry K. Bogert, Chas. H. Marshall, John K. Myers.

Trustees of the Institution for the Savings of Merchants' Clerks.—Moses H. Grinnell, Benjamin R. Winthrop, A. Gracie King, John D. McKenzie.

George M. Clearman was elected Commissioner of Sailor Boarding-houses.

Ezra Nye was elected a Commissioner of Pilots.

Resolutions were adopted relative to the death of Capt. E. E. MORGAN, after which the Chamber adjourned.

The Income Tax.

There appears to be considerable misunderstanding still existing in the public mind concerning the income tax now due under the United States Revenue Laws. Those unacquainted with the provisions of the tax bill will find the following brief résumé of interest:

First, the tax of five per centum is only imposed on the excess of iucome over $600, and is payable on the income received for the year ending December 31, 1863. The tax on income derived from United States Securities is specially restricted to 2⅗ of 1 per centum.

All State and municipal taxes lawfully paid may be deducted from the estimate of the income of the person actually paying the same. It is also provided that the rent of the homestead used or occupied by any person or family, not exceeding $200, may be deducted from the excess of income over $600.

In estimating the income, all forms of indebtedness bearing interest, whether due and paid, or not, if good and collectable, must be included as part of the annual income. The incomes of all officers employed in the civil, military or naval service of the United States are specially exempted from taxation under the Revenue Law.

Guardians of minors, and trustees of all estates held in trust, are required to furnish annual returns of the incomes of such minors, and the amounts received from such trust estates.

All returns of income under this law are required to be made or levied on the first day of May, and the amount of tax to be paid to the Collector of the several collection districts on or before the 30th day of June.

By an arrangement among the Assessors of New-York, however, it is understood that all returns of income made on or before the 10th day of May, will be accepted by them. After that date, delinquents will be assessed on the basis of such information as the Assistant Assessor may possess respecting their several incomes.

All taxes on incomes remaining unpaid for thirty days after the 30th of June, and so continuing for ten days after payment of the same shall be demanded by the Collector, will be subject to a penalty of 5 per centum, which is a lien on all property of the delinquent from which the income is derived, and the collection of the tax may be enforced by distraint upon such property.

Blank income tax papers are furnished to applicants at the offices of the several Assessors and by the Assistant Assessors.

The income tax is required in all cases to be paid in the district in which the person liable to pay the same resides at the time the same becomes due, and no notice is required to be given by the Assessor or Assistant Assessor to any person to furnish the return according to law.

A Warning to Bounty-Brokers.

It will be seen by the following act of the Legislature, just passed, that it is a penal offence to induce, or attempt to persuade or induce, any person to leave this State to enlist in another State. The punishment for violating this law is imprisonment, and a fine not exceeding $1,000. Our Police and public authorities should look to the violators of this law, and see that our citizens are not seduced into other States to fill their quotas while our own is deficient.

LAWS OF NEW-YORK—BY AUTHORITY.

[Every law, unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall commence and take effect throughout the State on, and not before, the twentieth day after the day of its final passage, as certified by the Secretary of State. Sec. 12, title 4, chap. 7, part 1, Revised Statutes.]

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT to amend section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-four of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-three, entitled "An Act to promote the reenlistment of volunteers now in the service of the United States, and the enlistment of persons into regiments and corps now in said service, and hereafter to be organized," passed April seventeenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-three.

Passed Jan. 29, 1864—three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION I. Section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-four of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-three, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 3. It shall not be lawful for any person, in any manner, to persuade or induce, or to attempt to persuade or induce, any resident of this State to enter into the military or naval forces raised or to be raised in any other State, for the military or naval service of the United States, or for the military or naval service in any other State. Whoever shall offend against the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars; one-half of said fine to be paid upon conviction of the offender to the party on whose information the arrest and conviction were made, or imprisonment, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 2. The said section three, except as above amended, is hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

STATE OF NEW-YORK,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

I have compared the preceeding with the original law on file in this office, and do certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original.

(Signed,) CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW,
Secretary of State.

The Veterans of 1812.

The veterans of 1812, '13 and '14, old men, whose patriotism is now as strong as ever, have addressed the following letter to GOV. SEYMOUR, by him it was forwarded to Gen. DIX, and by the General it has been forwarded to the Adjutant-General of the United States Army for his consideration.

To His Excellency, Horatio Seymour, Governor of the State of New-York:

A remnant of the aged veterans of the war of 1812, '13 and '14, inspired by that patriotic feeling that, in their youth, impelled them to take up arms in defence of their country, and feeling that their last days should find them equally devoted to the maintenance of the Union, for which our fathers so freely shed their blood through a seven years' war, do respectfully solicit that they may be stationed in some fortification in the vicinity of New-York, which we can keep in good order, protect and preserve the property of the United States.

They solicit the assignment of Fort Schuyler or any other fort in the harbor, if agreeable to His Excellency the President of the United States—as they would prefer Fort Schuyler, it being better adapted for the comfort of the old men, and more suitable to their age, believing that with the surviving veterans, numbering about one hundred, and with permission to add to their numbers, by enrolling good men from the age of 45 to 60 years of age, they would be able to manage the artillery and batteries of that work in case of necessity, and prove to their country, if age and hardships have whitened their locks, they still retain their patriotism, ability and devotion to the Union. They ask for the same pay, rations and clothing as are given to the forces of the United States, and to be placed under the command of their own officers and old associates in arms, subject to your Excellency's direction and control, and if permission is granted, to raise a regiment of veterans of the war of 1812, and good men from 45 to 60 years of age. A recruiting office will be opened at once, and a regiment raised with all possible dispatch. The veterans ask no bounty.

HENRY RAYMOND,
Brig.-Gen. of the V. C. War of 1812, '13 and '14.
ABM. DALLY, Colonel Veteran Corps of the War of 1812.

In behalf of the Veterans of the War of 1812, '13 and '14.

NEW-YORK, April 29, 1864.

Appointment of Commissioners of Taxes—An Imbroglio.

Yesterday Comptroller BRENNAN appointed GEORGE H. PURSER, (Dem.,) JONATHAN, W. ALLEN, (Rep.,) and CHRISTIAN B. WOODRUFF, (Dem.) Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, in place of the present board, whose term of office expired on last Monday. Mr. ALLEN is reappointed from the old board, who had been in office ten years, five of which were a continuance authorized by a special act of the Legislature. The two Commissioners who go out of office are JOSIAH W. BROWN, (Dem.,) and AMOS J. WILLIAMSON, (Rep., editor of the Dispatch.) Mr. WOODRUFF is one of our State Senators, and until the other day, and since last Summer, held the office of Inspector of Railroads, at a salary of $2,500 per year, an office for the abolishment of which Mayor GUNTHER has but just signed a resolution passed by the Common Council. Mr. WOODRUFF resigned this position just about the time the Mayor signed it out of existence. The salary of each Commissioner of Taxes and Assessments is $3,500 per year. The old board got a special bill through the Legislature to keep them in office five years more, but they failed to induce Gov. SEYMOUR to approve it. Yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, the new board demanded possession of the books, papers, &c. The demand was refused by the old board, and the case went into court. The old board claim that the law continuing them in office, which is somewhat ambiguous in respect to appointment of successors, does not give the Comptroller the power to appoint.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

THE ALLEGED MURDEROUS CONSPIRACY IN CHAMBERS-STREET—PROCEEDINGS TO DISMISS THE COMPLAINT.—The case of JOHN D. LEWIS, the Chambers-street merchant, who, it was alleged, had entered into a conspiracy a short time since to murder JOHN H. ANDERSON, merchant, doing business at No. 87 Chambers-street, came up yesterday before Justice SHANDLEY, at the Essex Market Police Court. It will be remembered that, according to the affidavits already published, it was charged that LEWIS employed JOHN MCCARTY, JEREMIAH GALVIN and EX-Policeman JOSEPH ACKERMAN, to inflict bodily harm on ANDERSON. The difficulty between LEWIS and ANDERSON had been of long standing, and a bitter enmity existed between them. CHAUNCEY SHAFFER, one of the counsel for Mr. LEWIS made a motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground of the insufficiency of the testimony. Counsel contended, in an argument of great length and force, that nothing had been proven against LEWIS to warrant his being held; that, in fact, he was not a party to the conspiracy. CHAR. S. SPENCER replied to these remarks, and strongly opposed the motion to dismiss the complaint. The magistrate took the papers, and gave notice that he would make his decision in a day or two. Meantime MCCARTY and ACKERMAN are held as witnesses.

THE AMERICAN GEOGRAPHICAL AND STATISTICAL SOCIETY.—This Society, which has been chartered only ten years, is in a flourishing condition and has at present nearly four hundred members and a library of works relating to geography and statistics, numbering over ten thousand volumes, and a large number of maps and charts.

The annual election of officers was held at the rooms of the Society, in Clinton Hall, last evening, and the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Hon. Charles P. Daly; Vice-Presidents, Joseph P. Thompson, M. D., Archibald Russell, George Folsom; Recording Secretary, Wm. Coventry H. Waddell; Foreign Corresponding Secretary, Francis A. THE CALAMITY IN DOYER-STREET—VERDICT OF THE CORONER'S JURY.—Yesterday Coroner RANNEY concluded the investigation, commenced several days ago, relative to the calamity at the corner of Doyer-st. and Chatham-square, already reported in our columns. At the conclusion of the testimony, the Jury rendered the following verdict:

"We find that the deceased, MARY HENIG, and her three children, WILLIAM, MENA and CHARLES HENIG came to their deaths by burns, but as to the origin of the fire the jury were unable to say: but we recommend that the whole matter be further investigated by the Fire Marshal, and also ask to have JOHN SULLIVAN detained in custody for a further examination on suspicion of arson."

Upon the rendition of this verdict, the Coroner required SULLIVAN to find bail in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance, in case it should be required after a full investigation by the Fire Marshal. WALTER SHEA, of No. 155 Henry-street, and JOHN ROURKE, No. 54 Franklin-street, became his bondsmen. SULLIVAN pleaded not guilty when examined before the Coroner.

ATTEMPT TO BURN A PROVOST-MARSHAL'S OFFICE IN THIRD-AVENUE.—About daylight yesterday morning an attempt was made to set fire to the office of the Provost-Marshal of the Seventh District, Capt. WAGNER, at No. 63 Third-avenue. The incendiary bored a hole through the ceiling of the third floor from the adjoining premises. He then saturated the floor with burning-fluid, and applied a match. Fortunately, the flames were discovered in time by the officer on duty, who promptly extinguished them. Fire-Marshal BAKER is making an investigation of the case. No arrest had been made at a late hour last night.

FESTIVAL OF THE ASCENSION.—The Festival of the Ascension was observed yesterday morning at Trinity Church, which was thronged to overflowing. The ceremonies were impressive and were participated in by the clergy from many of the other Episcopal Churches. Rev. Dr. HIGBEE delivered the sermon. At the close, the Holy Communion was administered, a large number partaking of the sacrament. The music during the ceremonies was of unusual excellence. In the Catholic Churches the Festival was observed, High Mass being performed in all the churches.

SUICIDE OF A SERVANT GIRL.—An inquest was held yesterday on the body of BRIDGET HYNES, an Irish domestic aged 18 years, who committed suicide at No. 167 West Thirteenth-street. The deed was effected by means of a dose of arsenic, which, from all the testimony in the case it seems she deliberately administered to herself for the purpose of self-destruction. Dr. BOUTON made a post-mortem examination, when he found a quantity of arsenic in the stomach of deceased. No cause has been assigned for the commission of the act.
